HAS Miss Wilson signed your special leave card? Has the Sing been approved? Do you know whether the fraternity dance has been put on the calendar? . . . with these and a thousand and one other queries, our Dean of Residence of the Woman's College, Miss Mary Grace Wilson, is more than familiar. Miss Wilson has become a vital part of the mainspring of Duke University in the many years that she has served the students and the University. When the Woman's College opened in 1930, she served as Social Director and occupied this position until 1937, when she became Dean of Residence. In this capacity she has devoted herself to her greatest concern—that of aiding the students in combining a well-balanced program of extra-curricular activities with their academic interests. We wish to pay tribute to Miss Wilson because her first thought has always been of others—be it the lowliest freshman or the loftiest senior—and because where duty stops, she has continued beyond unselfishly and sympathetically. She is esteemed and beloved by all who know and work with her. We, the students of Duke University, are proud to dedicate this 1950 Chanticleer to Miss Mary Grace Wilson.

BOOK 5

THE Blue Devil represents the different phases of life on the Duke campus. Just as we have attempted to capture his various moods, so we hope this book will appeal to all of you for one reason or another. A university is more than just an educational institution—it is a motivating factor in the lives of every one of us. To the freshman, it means the beginning of a life filled with many novel experiences. For the first time, he is free to make his own decisions, to sink or swim, depending upon his goals in life. To the senior, it means the closing of one door and the opening of another. He is ready to utilize the benefits to which he has been exposed. To the professor, a university symbolizes guidance in the development of future generations and the opportunity for exploring the realms of the hitherto unknown in his field of concentration. To the alumnus, it means the chance to reminisce—to go back to the youth he remembers only occasionally. And finally, to the parent, it means an opportunity to visualize the environment in which his child lives for four years.

This book which you are now opening is our summation of the achievements of the students, the faculty, the administration . . . of the University in this year of 1950. These days have been the most pleasant and the most exciting of all our lives. But now they are just memories—lingering memories which are to be cherished as long as we live. We cannot possibly remember all the incidents of bull sessions, Canasta games, “ec” professors, the unbeatable combinations of athletic stars, or the evenings spent at the Rathskellar. This book cannot possibly recall all your experiences to you. We do not claim to—but we have tried to do our best. However, it is difficult to inculcate all the sentiments of five thousand teeming humans into this one volume. The staff hopes, nevertheless, that throughout these pages you will find some picture or phase which will be significant to you of your life at Duke.

ADMINISTRATION

FACULTY LIFE

FACULTY

DR. A. HOLLIS EDENS

President

TRINITY COLLEGE

R. L. Flowers

It was Homecoming, and the campus was decorated with displays predicting V.P.I.'s defeat, and crowded with dignitaries. At the high point of the celebration, Dr. A. Hollis Edens confirmed the fact that he had come home to Duke. Dr. Edens received his A.B. and M.A. degrees at Emory University and Davidson College. After holding such offices as Dean of Administration of Emory University and Associate Director of the Rockefeller Foundation's General Education Board, he assumed his new duties, was tapped by Omicron Delta Kappa, and became a delegate to the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church.

Having performed the duties of President of Duke from 1941 to 1948, Dr. Robert Lee Flowers is now Chancellor of the University. Duke's former president is a veteran of fifty-eight years service in the field of education. He was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1891. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa, and holds two honorary Doctorates of law.

W. H. Wannamaker

Dr. William Hane Wannamaker, Vice-Chancellor of the University, graduated from Wofford College with an A.B. degree, attended Trinity College for his M.A., and was later awarded a Doctor of Literature from Wofford. At Duke he has worked as a member of Publications Board and faculty chairman of the Athletic Committee.

P. M. Gross

Dr. Paul M. Gross, newly appointed Vice-President of the Educational Division, holds degrees from the College of the City of New York and Columbia University. Formerly Dean of the Graduate School, Dr. Gross has recently been selected President of the Oak Ridge Institute for Nuclear Studies. Despite these activities, he finds time to fish and sail in his home-made boat.

In the division of public relations, the position of Vice-President and Secretary is ably filled by Charles E. Jordan. Graduating from Trinity College in 1923, Dr. Jordan attended Duke Law School and in 1940, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Law degree from Elon College. Aside from being chairman of the University's athletic council and the Y.M.C.A. board, he is a sports fan and civic worker.

Herbert Herring, Vice-President of Duke University, holds an A.B. from Duke, A.M. from Columbia, and Doctor of Laws from Juniata College. An active administrator and public speaker, Dean Herring is chairman of the Publications Board, Duke University Church Board, and University Social Committee, and President of the Durham Executives Club. For relaxation, he particularly enjoys hunting and fishing with his son.

H. J. Herring

C. B. Markham

Charles B. Markham, treasurer of the University, received his A.M. and A.B. degrees at Trinity College and did graduate work at Columbia. A member of Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa, he was graduated in the class of 1906. Prior to his promotion to Treasurer in 1941, he was Assistant Professor of Engineering, Professor of Mathematics and Assistant Treasurer. Now, outside of his many official duties, he is a member of the faculty club and is treasurer of the athletic council. Most of his spare time is devoted to his two grandsons, who, he says, keep him pretty busy.

A graduate of Vanderbilt University and possessor of A.B., M.A., Ph.D. degrees, Alan K. Manchester, former Dean of Freshmen, now holds a new position, that of Dean of Undergraduate Studies. His work includes coördinating the three undergraduate colleges. An additional burden was placed on him this last fall when he became the Executive Secretary of the Presidential Inauguration. At the university a great deal of his time is spent in extra-curricular activities, while his "extra" time at home is taken up by his large collection of classical records and garden full of prize roses.

A. K. Manchester

Robert B. Cox, Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Studies, was graduated from the University of Tennessee and then attended Peabody College, where he received his A.M. degree. His graduate work was completed at Duke and the University of North Carolina. The first part of his career was spent in several Tennessee schools, but he returned to Duke in 1945, and two years later became Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Men. He is the Secretary of Omicron Delta Kappa, Chairman of the Duke University Church Board, and likes to attend the university dances.

R. B. Cox

James Matthew Slay has held the position of Assistant Dean of Trinity College since 1947. He is an alumnus of Duke, having received his A.B. and M.A. degrees here. Previous to his graduate work at Harvard, he served as an instructor of Romance Languages at Randolph-Macon Military Academy and served for four years in the United States Marine Corps. On campus he is the adviser not only for the junior class, but also for the Townboys and the Shoe and Slipper Club. He is an active member of the Athletic Council, Omicron Delta Kappa, and Kappa Delta Pi.

J. M. Slay

Assuming the duties of Dean of Freshmen this year was William

C. Archie, assistant professor in the department of Romance Languages. Dean Archie is a relative newcomer to the Duke campus, having come here in 1946, after four years in the U. S. Army. A native of North Carolina, he achieved his B.A. and M.A. degrees at Davidson, Wake Forest, and Princeton. He spent several years studying abroad in Tours, France. Prior to his coming to Duke he instructed at Gulfport Military Academy, Oak Ridge Military Academy, and Wake Forest College. Dean Archie is a member of Pi Kappa Phi and Phi Kappa Phi, and is active in community affairs.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE

R. F. Brinkley

Roberta Florence Brinkley, Dean of the Woman's College, received her A.B. from Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Georgia, her M.A. from Grace Peabody College, and her Ph.D. from Yale. Through her job, she is intimately associated with all of the organizations on campus and is on the Church Board of the University. Currently, she is doing research on Seventeenth Century English Literature, and in her spare time, she enjoys gardening. This remarkable lady believes that personal acquaintance with the students tends to build up a warmth, friendliness, and willingness to cooperate that can be mutually beneficial.

For adequate proof that she practices what she preaches, one needs only to chat with her or see her warm, cheerful smile as she strolls down the campus.

Mrs. Ruth Slack Smith attended Agnes Scott College and Colorado University, where she received her A.B. and M.A. degrees. She is an honorary member of Sandals, a White Duchy, a member of Phi Kappa Delta, and is on the advisory board of the Y.W.C.A. In her years on East Campus, she has filled just about every position from Freshman Adviser to her present one as Dean of Undergraduate Instruction, and in her spare time she has managed to do quite a bit of work in Durham. Ask her how she likes to relax, and she will say either by traveling, spading her garden, or rummaging in her collection of period costumes.

E. H. Huckabee

Miss Ellen Harris Huckabee, Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Instruction, is an alumna of Duke University, where she received her A.B. and M.A. degrees. She works as adviser to the Freshman Advisory Council and also with Ivy. Not only is she a member of the General Social Committee, but also of the Duke University Church Board. With a variety of interests including golf, horseback riding, and music, she still enjoys settling down with a good book.

The Director of the Committee on Admissions, the freshman's first friend, Mrs. W. S. Persons graduated from Duke in 1922, with B.A. and M.A. degrees. She did further academic work at the University of Pennsylvania and returned to Duke in 1930 to take her place as the beaming lady whose signature and personality create a lasting impression with each freshman of the Woman's College.

M. G. Wilson

Miss Mary Grace Wilson, Dean of Residence, was born in South Carolina, graduated from Winthrop College, and went to Columbia for her post graduate work. She is on the Steering Board and the Church Board and is a member of Phi Kappa Delta, Kappa Delta Pi, and White Duchy. Through her, all campus social functions must be arranged. Despite the fact that much of her work in the Woman's College is done behind the scenes, she is widely known outside of East Campus.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

W. H. Hall

"Prove the need, and everything that can be done will be done to take care of it." The administration of Duke's Engineering Division proved the need and, just as Dr. R. L. Flowers had predicted, everything was done. The result was a new college of the University, the College of Engineering. Since that time rapid progress has been made, especially since the new West Campus Engineering Building was occupied in the spring of 1948. Installed in the building is the latest equipment available for the study of electrical, mechanical, and civil engineering. Plans for the future call for the establishment of a graduate school in engineering, comparable to any in the country.

Perhaps more than in any other branch, traditions of the College of Engineering have been firmly moulded. Each year all engineers turn their attention and efforts toward an Engineers' Show, which displays their ingenuity and workmanship for the pleasure of the public. With the coöperation and encouragement of the faculty, students have developed an esprit de corps which has enabled them to form the Engineers' Club, professional societies, and honorary organizations worthy of national recognition. They have their own radio club, which broadcasts all over the world. The DukEngineer, their technical publication, is another result of their desire to progress.

H. C. Bird

W. J. Seeley

One of the strongest advocates of a separate engineering college was W. H. Hall, present Dean of the College. After attending Trinity College and the U. S. Naval Academy, Dean Hall received his A.B. from Trinity in 1909. His M.A., B.C.E., and M.S.C.E. were earned at Trinity and the Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin respectively. With the exception of two years, his career has been one of teaching. Appointed director of the old Division of Engineering in 1937, Dean Hall became head of the College upon its creation.

Dean Hall is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Tau Beta Pi, and Omicron Delta Kappa. He also holds membership in the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Water Works Association, and the North Carolina Society of Engineers.

Ably assisting Dean Hall are the three departmental heads: H. C. Bird, Civil Engineering; W. J. Seeley, Electrical Engineering; and R. S. Wilbur, Mechanical Engineering.

The student body, faculty, and administration are bound together in a common bond of professional fellowship. With their new building, they are collectively and accurately entitled the College of Engineering.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOLS

From out of the West came Dr. H. A. Bosley, Dean of Duke's Divinity School, and one of the preachers to the University. Awarded his A.B. degree at Nebraska Wesleyan in 1930, Dean Bosley then attended the University of Chicago, receiving his B.D. in 1932, and his Ph.D. the following year. Before coming to Duke in 1947, he held the positions of Director of Religious Activities at Iowa State Teachers College, and minister of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church. Dr. Bosley stands out as one of the leading Methodists in the country. He has written several books and countless articles in the field of religious literature. His latest work, Main Issues Confronting Christendom, was selected by the Religious Book-of-the-Month Club as outstanding.

H. A. Bosley

Charles L. B. Lowndes, acting Dean of the School of Law, was an instructor at Georgetown University before he came to Duke. He received an A.B. degree from Georgetown, and an LL.B. and S.J.D. from Harvard. Dean Lowndes is well known in his field. An instructor at Duke since the fall of 1934, he was named by Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson to a committee of six tax experts, charged with the task of showing the way for cutting down the volume of Federal tax legislation. Mr. Lowndes has written numerous articles on the subject of federal taxation for magazines and periodicals. He is a member of the New York and North Carolina bars, the American Association of University Professors, and Phi Delta Phi.

C. L. B. Lowndes

Dean of the Duke School of Forestry, Dr. Clarence F. Korstian comes from Saline County, Nebraska. At the state university there he received his B.S.G. and M.F. degrees in 1911 and 1913. He then attended Southeastern Christian College to earn his M.A. As a research fellow at Yale, he was awarded his Ph.D. in 1926. Dr. Korstian came to Duke in 1930 as director of Duke Forest and professor of silviculture. He assumed his present duties as Dean of the Forestry School in 1938. He is a member of a long list of forester societies, in many of which he has been an officer. He is also an author of several books and articles on Forestry. In the community life of Durham, he is an active member of the Rotary Club and the Durham Executives Club. His family garden and prize stamp collection are his chief outside interests.

C. F. Korstian

W. C. Davison

Now entering his twenty-fourth year of service to the Duke Medical School, Dr. Wilburt C. Davison has been Dean and professor of pediatrics here since 1927. After graduating from Princeton with an A.B. degree, Dr. Davison went to England on a Rhodes Scholarship. Between 1914 and 1919, he earned an A.B., a B.S., and an M.A. degree from Oxford. Returning to this country, he was awarded an M.D. from Johns Hopkins University, where he became an instructor and finally an assistant dean in the medical school. He held this position until he came to Duke in 1927. Later he received a B.S.C. from Wake Forest College and an LL.D. from the University of North Carolina. Dr. Davison is a member of the division of medical sciences of the National Research Council as well as consultant to the Office of the Surgeon General, U. S. Army. An honorary member of the Guatemalan Medical Society, he also serves the N. C. Hospital Board of Control.

Dean Florence K. Wilson is head of the School of Nursing of Duke University, a position which she assumed in 1946. Miss Wilson, who taught botany before taking up nursing, received her A.B. from the University of Michigan. Later she attended Vassar Training Camp for Nurses and the City Hospital School of Nursing in New York City. In 1930, her M.A. was acquired from Western Reserve University. Being quite fond of music, Dean Wilson frequently spends time listening to her record collection and attending concerts. She also retains her interest in botany and collects flower prints.

F. K. Wilson

Arthur M. Proctor was appointed Director of Summer Sessions at Duke University in 1947. He received an A.B. at Duke in 1910, an M.A. at Columbia in 1923, and a Ph.D. at Columbia in 1930. Dr. Proctor has been an educator for many years, beginning his work in public schools systems. He attended graduate school at Columbia for his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees, and came to Duke in 1923. Dr. Proctor is president of the Faculty Club, as well as local division president of the American Association of University Professors. He is also a member of the Faculty Curricular Committee. Although a busy member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Beta Kappa, he is able to work with the State Department of Education. To him relaxation means fishing, which he does whenever the opportunity arises.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

A POSITION on the Board of Trustees—the men behind the men behind the desks—means more than just appearing on the board's letterhead. It means that each member, whether a Methodist minister, or a professional or business man, was chosen by the North Carolina and Western North Carolina Conferences to serve the University from behind the scenes. It means having a hand in the future of Duke University.

ALUMNI DEPARTMENT

HOUSED in various and sundry places throughout the West Campus Union, the Duke Alumni Department is responsible for maintaining the ties between the University and its 21,000 living alumni. Through such publications as the Alumni Register and the Alumni News, this department, headed by Charles A. Dukes, keeps Duke grads posted on themselves and on the University.

In addition to Alumni affairs, Mr. Dukes and his staff are charged with the upkeep of the Information Desk, the mailing office, the University House, and the Union facilities.

DEPARTMENT HEADS

THERE are department heads and then again there are department heads. Twenty-seven of them, in fact. We know. We counted them. It was one bright summer afternoon, with the sky as blue as a Junior taking his first Remedial English Exam, and the grass as green as a freshman signing up for his first semester. We looked ourselves square in the face and we said to ourselves, said we, "Such a lovely summer's afternoon as this, and we don't know how many heads there are in the departments here at Duke University." The very idea was appalling. Think of it! One head more or less and the possibilities are positively unthinkable. So we decided right then and there that something had to be done—a detailed survey of the entire set-up was eminently necessary. We were eminently eager for the job.

Dr. C. B. Hoover, Economics

Dr. H. J. Blomquist, Botany

J. M. Cameron, Health and Physical Education

Dr. E. W. Berry, Geology

Dr. R. S. Rankin, Political Science

Dr. J. J. Gergen, Mathematics

And now, therefore, it can be told—the stark results of this amazing survey—the true story of this carefully cribbed report—a document compiled only after long, arduous months of intensive research and investigation. In fact, the investigation was so long and so arduous that only a small part of its contents is herewith revealed. The rest can only be whispered of. But nevertheless, statistics show that be they short or tall, young or old, gay or grumpy, hard or—harder, the average head of a department here at Duke, somewhere, deep down in his innermost soul, is almost sure to be a pretty good joe. For conclusive proof, we offer two who could easily stand as examples of just what we mean.

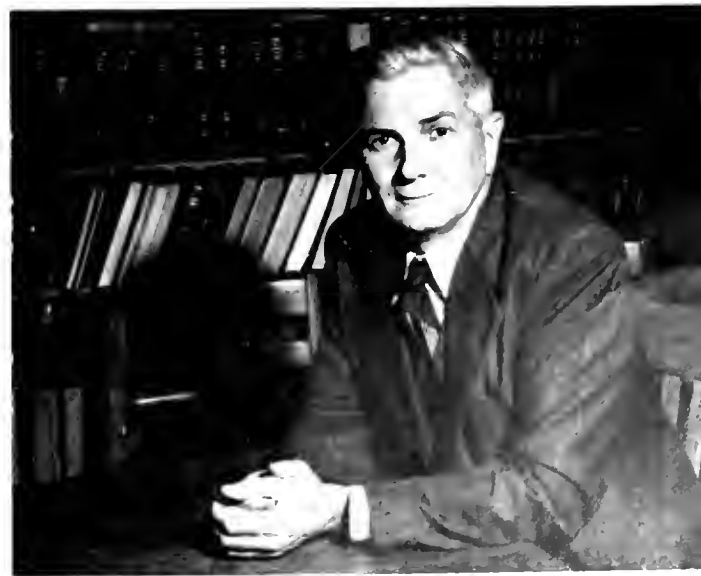

Professor Walter J. Seeley, head of the Electrical Engineering Department, was born November 30, 1894, in Shamokin, Pennsylvania. Several "Ions" later Professor Seeley, having graduated from the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn (E.E.) in 1917, and the University of Pennsylvania

Dr. C. Vollmer, German

(M.S., Physics) in 1924, joined the electrical engineering staff at Towne Scientific School, University of Pennsylvania, as an instructor. He remained there for six years. During this time he also did some work on (and hold onto your hats 'cause here's where we get technical) the designing of variable condensers with semi-circular, straight line wave length and straight line frequency plates for use in receivers and wave meters. He also designed inductances to be used with the condensers in neutrodyne circuits. And yet we wonder how our profs. can ever be so smart as to keep track of all our cuts. Why, man, compared with the semi-circular straight line wave length and the neutrodyne circuits, we are but mere "few(ses) that have blown" and we take no ingenuity at all.

Professor Seeley worked part time for four years on street lighting problems in Trenton, New Jersey. This fact may explain the simultaneous appearance of purity lights on East and Prof. Seeley on West. He served in both world wars, installing listening devices in the first, and working in Washington during the second. Among his writings are many articles for publication. His name has appeared in Who's Who, Who's Who in Engineering, Modern Men of Science, Who's Who in Education, and Who Knows and What.

He is a member of a wide variety of societies and organizations. To list a few, there are Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, Sigma Pi Sigma, Pi Mu Epsilon, O.D.K., and Naval Ordnance Laboratory, of which he was the first president.

But on to Asbury, the Department of Aesthetics, Art, and Music, and Dr. Katherine Everett Gilbert. Asbury is, in itself, a fascinating building with all sorts of surrealistic-looking pictures hanging about on walls of pale blue and questionable pink. Stairs go wandering off in all manner of odd, elusive directions. String quartets and madrigal singers are likely to pop up almost anywhere. But we suspect that the real charm of the place lies in the wit and understanding of its department head. Dr. Gilbert is a truly brilliant woman. This shows up never more clearly than in her Ethics classes, where she must continually be transposing the philosophies of Plato and Aristotle, Mill and Locke into words of more or less one syllable, comprehensible to the mind of the average college freshman. The mark of true genius is not the ability to confound and use big words, but to make clear and use big thoughts.

Dr. Gilbert was born in 1886. She got her A.B. from Brown University in 1908, her A.M. in 1910, her Ph.D. from Cornell in 1912, and Mrs. from Alan H. Gilbert in 1913. She taught in the elementary schools in New England for two years. She was an Assistant in English at Brown. Perhaps the only black mark on her record is the fact that she was once a member of the faculty at Carolina. Here at Duke, in her hands, the department of Aesthetics, Art, and Music rests with confidence and child-like faith. One has the feeling that if he were to follow the labyrinth of passages which is Ashbury to their ultimate end, he would find himself face to face with Aristotle, Mendelssohn, and Salvador Dali, all sipping steaming cups of grey-green sake and conversing happily with Dr. Gilbert.

The lesson to be learned from all of this is pointed—to wit: if the remaining twenty-five department heads here at Duke are set on shoulders of comparable breadth and sturdiness as those of Drs. Gilbert and Seeley, then they obviously have the situation well in hand. The student body can relax in the blissful knowledge that their welfare is being duly taken care of, and that their quality points are being carefully deducted with the minimum of pain and distraction.

NURSES' STUDENT GOVERNMENT

NESTLED snugly beside the massive Duke Hospital and partially hidden by giant green trees is Baker House, home of the girls in nurses' training and center of a swarming beehive of activity, work, fun, and play. Ten years ago these girls organized their lives under a system of student government for the first time. Now the Duke School of Nursing is one of the few in the state of North Carolina to have a student government association, and their organization is one of the most progressive in existence. Once a week the student council meets to discuss special problems and to hear pleas and petitions.

N.S.G.A. was organized to help the student in every way. It encourages participation in school functions, promotes leadership, upholds the ideals of self government, and establishes the rules and regulations which keep the school among the most progressive in the South. Last year, with the consent of the faculty, the Association passed more liberal social privileges, such as more twelve o'clock permissions per week and more lenient hours for the pre-clinical nurses. The Association also presented to the student body a more efficient in-and-out card system; it was approved and voted upon, and is now in use at Baker House.

The Association emphasized the honor code in Nursing School. Each student, upon entering the school, assumes the responsibility of upholding the principles of the honor code, which not only pertains to academic life but to the social and professional life as well.

In the way of social events, the Student Government, besides sponsoring numerous small functions, stages an annual formal Christmas party.

STUDENT LIFE

Going through line, nurses show they are pondering over what to choose.

Nurses keep busy all day needling sick little boys.

A baby boy is presented to his mother by nurse at Duke Hospital.

"Yipe, how different you look, Daisy Mae," chuckles L'Il Abner at the Dog Patch party

These young ladies comprise the nurses choir which sings at hospital vespers and sometimes joins in with the Divinity School choir.

Music makes the world go around, at least for nurses.

Reading, knitting, and playing bridge add enjoyment to the leisure time.

MEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Bob Hazel, President

SERVING in its traditional position as connecting link between the student body and the administration, Duke's Men's Student Government Association this year carried out several projects for the mutual benefit of the University and its students.

Tackling the need for a campus radio station, M.S.G.A. staged a fund-raising drive, drew up the necessary plans, and saw it permanently established. The Association's student book exchange, put into operation at the start of the spring semester, succeeded beyond all expectations.

These achievements, together with the excellent work of the newly-created Judicial Committee, were the fruits of a highly successful year.

WOMEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

THE Women's Student Government Association, composed of all undergraduate women, takes into consideration many problems from students, faculty, and outside organizations. By holding open council meetings this year, the East campus governing body made a real effort to have coeds feel that they were truly active members.

During the year W.S.G.A. sponsored a three-day government workshop for the entire campus. Through their financial aid, a Latvian student was able to attend Duke. The Campus Chest received much of their time, as did the Student Handbook. The year's program was designed to place responsibility and honor more completely on an individual and personal basis.

Sylvia Sommer, President

TO make the freshman feel at home at Duke and to assist him in his scholastic and extra-curricular work, social life, and adjustment to rules and traditions has been the purpose of the Freshman Advisory Council. One hundred and five interested advisers, chosen for character and personality from the student body, put this objective into effect. Their work includes such programs as library tours, Sunday evening open houses, and the distribution of extensive written information concerning study hints and second semester courses.

Dick Best officiated as president, assisted by Don Huber, vice-president; Huitt Mattox, secretary; and Robert Melton, treasurer.

COUNSELOR, friend and guide . . . that is the role a freshman adviser plays as she pilots a small group of freshmen over the sea of adjustments that confront every new student during her beginning year at college.

The Woman's Freshman Advisory Council is composed of carefully chosen and trained upper-classmen. Through individual assistance and consultation, the members of the council can be depended upon to provide valuable help in solving a freshman's problems throughout the year. Advisers remain closely associated with their groups, and gain insight into the situation that first-year students meet, thus building a firm foundation for a freshman's college life.

Y.M.C.A.

John Ellsworth, President

“PARDON me, but could you. . .” The man with the arm band smiled and answered. Orientation week was a hectic one for the “Y” man. He was busy pinning name cards on lapels of freshmen’s fathers at Dad’s Day later in the fall, too. On Thanksgiving morning, he attended the “Y” church service. And that afternoon he watched weeks of planning culminate in the annual wheelbarrow race. After the Carolina game, he rolled up his sleeves to set the women’s gym in order for the Tobacco Ball. All year he made plans, then carried them out. Now he can mop his brow and look back on a year of Christianity in action at all times and in all places.

The Duke Y.M.C.A. tries to show that Christianity is a way of life. Through service, the “Y” sets an example of perfect goodwill.

Y.W.C.A.

A NEW "Y"—new, perhaps, in organization and ideas, but old in purpose and reputation. New committees replace old commissions, and the "Y" chalks up another outstanding year in guiding the religious life of the campus and the individual. Versatile, active, fervent, the "Y" goes everywhere—to the stage via the "North Atlantic" sing and hold-day dramas . . . to press with Y and Wherefore . . . to work with reading to hospital patients, making toys, collecting old clothes. Girls learn how to balance the budget, stitch the seam, and bake the bread in the Y-sponsored Homemaking Series. Mother-Daughter Weekend, forum with North Carolina College, luncheons—all belong to the "Y." As Duke is the intellectual alma mater of graduates, the "Y" earns its place as the spiritual alma mater of every coed.

MEN'S FRESHMAN AND SOPHOMORE "Y" CABINET

LEADERSHIP of the highest quality has always been one of the secrets of the "Y" 's success. By choosing the cream of the freshman class, the senior "Y" members begin training new leaders from their earliest college days.

This year's Freshman "Y" cabinet came into office full of new and practical ideas. Before the year was over, they saw many of their suggestions become realities. By setting an example for others, they began to encourage church attendance, table grace, and personal devotions. Then they went to work on keeping a bulletin board, playing music in the cafeteria, and leading devotion periods before Freshman Assemblies. At least fifty freshman boys lent a hand at Edgemont, and many turned out to help decorate for the Tobacco Ball. Such subjects as Boy-Girl Relationships were discussed at monthly forums, and the suggestion box put up by the cabinet brought forth other topics the boys themselves felt should be discussed. These ideas resulted from a cabinet retreat early in the year. Then a meeting of the entire class was called, and the purposes and activities of the "Y" were presented. The only thing left to do was to sign the eager freshman for committees and let them go to work.

On the sophomore "Y" cabinet are those who are interested in training men for the responsibilities of a position on the senior cabinet. All of their work is correlated with the senior cabinet projects. With the "YW," classes were sponsored for the campus non-dancers. For those bridge enthusiasts, a tournament was held. The sophomore "Y" cabinet was on hand to aid at the President's reception and at the Thanksgiving service. In everything, these "Y" cabinets sought to help students grow in Christian faith and service by setting the example.

FALL of 1949, and as a freshman stepped into her dorm, she stepped into her "Y" fellowship group . . . a group which came to mean much to her during this first year at college. Her fellowship group, along with one in each of the other dorms and one for the town girls, meant fun at the Ark barn dance; carols at Christmas; a series of discussions and addresses on courtship and marriage; student-faculty coffees in the Unions of both campuses; parties with the Freshman "Y" on West; problems of dating, beliefs, and today's world discussed; vespers in the new chapel. They meant all this and more intangible things—the feeling of belonging through participation, the sense of maturing in religious faith.

That is what the Freshman Fellowship organization means, but what is it? With the new "Y" set-up, the groups carry on their own activities with the president and one adviser serving on the "Y" cabinet. Each dorm has a senior leader, a junior assistant, and a freshman representative, so that freshmen receive "Y" training from their first week of college—tours of the chapel, study of campus architecture, trips through Durham.

Fall of 1959—another girl will enter Duke and discover a tried and proved Freshman Fellowships organization waiting for her. Coöperation, co-ordination, work, worship, fun, fellowship—so on goes the religious life of the freshmen under the guidance of the "Y" 's new program. On go the worthwhile projects and wholesome fun. On goes the Kingdom of God on earth! "We unite in the desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God."

SOCIAL STANDARDS

Madge Slaughter, President

PRESENTING a pleasant social life, promoting gracious living, setting standards of good taste and conduct—these are the aims of the Social Standards Committee, composed of representatives from town girls and each dorm on East Campus.

Two of the largest events of the year were the long-anticipated Coed Balls. Other social functions arranged by the committee were the Freshman Barn Dance, the Transfer Dance, and the Twilight Hours. Literary activities of the group included publishing the Freshman Handbook and the Social Standards Calendar. A new project this year was the establishment of a file, available to all organizations, containing information useful in giving any kind of social function.

STUDENT FORUM

SIX students, who are chosen each spring from the rising senior class by the W. S. G.A. Council, help bring culture to Duke students. These girls compose the Student Forum Committee.

As an integral part of our educational program, the regular classroom and extra-curricular activities are supplemented by a series of lectures which bring to the campus each year outstanding men and women from all parts of the world and all walks of life. The program for the past year included Robert St. John, news commentator; Margaret Bourke-White, photographer; Max Lerner, journalist; and Ogden Nash, poet. The students contribute to a fund which provides the honoraria for these lectures and may request special lecturers at any time.

STUDENT COORDINATE BOARD

THE Student Coordinate Board was established at Duke in 1945 as an auxiliary unit of the Woman's Student Government to act as an intermediary among the students, faculty, and administration. It is the duty of the board to investigate and act upon various suggestions given to them concerning the improvement of conditions on campus.

The board is selected from the Student Government Association with three members from each class, plus a chairman and two representatives from the W. S. G. A. Council.

Feeling that they could work more closely and effectively with the faculty, this year's Board, for the first time, selected an adviser, Dr. DeVyver, chairman of the Faculty Council, to represent them on the Student Coordinate Board.

ATHLETIC competition, as well as scholarship and social life, is invaluable in developing individual character. With this in mind, the Women's Athletic Association aims to bring together all undergraduates on East Campus in an effort toward further appreciation and enjoyment of sports.

Toward this end, W. A. A., in which all undergraduate women are eligible for membership, sponsors several sports clubs. Several Saturday night open houses feature swimming, volley ball, ping pong, bridge, and dancing. A picnic during Freshman Week introduces the newly-arrived coeds to East campus sports. Such events as the Modern Dance recital, the kite-flying competition among houses, and the Nereidian Pageant round out an active and successful year.

MODERN DANCE CLUB

CREATIVE self-expression through dance is the aim of the Modern Dance Club. It offers experience in the fundamentals of modern dance, choreography, and composition and stimulates appreciation of the dance as a choric art. An interest in related arts is also developed through modern dance work.

Members of the Modern Dance Club work together with the music and art departments in the spring to present an annual dance recital, a highlight of the group's activities. Each year the club participates in the Arts Forum staged at Greensboro, North Carolina, combining skill in athletics, art in presentation, dancing ability and talent, originality, and expression through movement to present one composition. In 1948, a composition by Jo Reynolds, president of the club at that time, was selected as one of the three outstanding compositions viewed by the Arts Forum.

Adapting music and originating dances, the group has given lectures and demonstrations for local civic clubs and campus organizations. Working with Hoof 'n' Horn, the Modern Dance Club members have participated in musical comedies. They demonstrate easy grace, rhythm, and individualized interpretation in sequences varying from folk dances to those of a religious nature. Students design all costumes and stage settings necessary for the club's performances.

Advisor for the group is Miss Lewis, the founder. Officers this year are Jocelyn Bird, president; Jo Hendricks, vice-president; Emily Boone, secretary; and Nyle Brug, treasurer. Tryouts for membership are held at the beginning of the fall semester and in the spring.

IF you are like most people, you enjoy watching a beautiful, well-coördinated water ballet. The Nereidian Club, appropriately deriving its name from the sea nymphs of Greek mythology, offers you this chance every April.

The club, founded on East Campus in 1938, is the honorary swimming organization of Duke. Each spring its members have presented a pageant which is given for three nights. These pageants not only display the form and coördination of the swimmers, but also are accompanied by music, lighting, and simple, effective scenery surrounding the pool. Each pageant has a main theme with several figures or scenes complete with costumed swimmers, who create different designs in the water. Exhibition diving is usually given during the intermission.

Tryouts for Nereidian are held twice a year, in the fall and spring. Those Duke women who are interested in becoming members are judged on the basis of good swimming strokes, underwater swimming, and diving. The point system is used to determine who shall be the future members. Those girls who are chosen are eligible for membership when they have completed a Senior Life-Saving course; if they have already passed this course, they are not required to take it again.

This year's officers were Ruthann Imler, president; Lena MacSmith, vice-president; Joy Pentz, secretary; and Cynthia Barrell, treasurer. The faculty adviser was Miss Frances Holton, who spent many hours supervising and directing the members of the club in preparation for this year's pageant. Her tireless efforts and good humor have endeared her to every girl.

PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY

LIHTS, scalpel, action! The Pre-Medical Society begins with operation "aid-in-course-selection-for-future-M.D.'s," and ends with mission "get-into-Med School" completed. Those undergraduate pre-medical students of both East and West Campus who evince a genuine interest in the Pre-Medical Society and its work, and show active support in its program are invited to join the organization. Entrance into the society is thus accomplished by attendance at several meetings plus an interview with the executive board of admission. If the candidate displays interest, character, and general scholastic ability, he is admitted.

The members of this group make no outstanding contributions to Duke campus life. Their goal and that of the society is entrance to medical school. The organization seeks to serve its members by helping them attain this goal, and the members in turn help the society to carry out its functional aims. The immediate aim of the society is closer coöperation among pre-medical students in their common practical problems. The overall goal is the introduction of pre-meds to the larger problems of medicine and the preparation of its members for the study of medicine.

Aiding in order and selection of courses, and tutoring in pre-med subjects are the projects of the group. In this line of work the society cooperates with F.A.C. and Phi Eta Sigma. Some activities of the past year include a banquet and a dance for all members, the presentation of several speakers on medical topics, and a symposium in the spring on pre-medical problems by members, Trinity College faculty, and physicians from Duke Hospital staff.

Presiding over this year's group was A. S. Weekly. The advisors were Dr. M. W. Johnson and Mrs. F. H. Swett.

DON'T give me any of your song and dance," shouted the prosecuting attorney as a frustrated and bewildered witness moved uneasily about the stand. An objection echoed throughout the courtroom . . . then silence. Turning to the judge, the prosecuting attorney interrupted in a now unruffled voice, "with the court's permission, I would ask the witness to limit his answers to pertinent facts, and abstain from answering the questions directed to him with statements intentionally impertinent and maliciously misleading." The trial continued. The jury brought in the verdict. The barristers-at-law shook hands and another mock trial of the Bench and Bar came to an end.

Fifteen years ago, Doctor Bradway of the Law School foresaw the great advantage that practical experience would give prospective lawyers and, with this purpose in mind, set the Bench and Bar into motion. Since that time, pre-legal students have rallied to the Bench and Bar, acclaiming it as an invaluable proving ground of self-expression and the training ground for judicial know-how.

Unlike most lawyers, the members of the Bench and Bar were not fully satisfied with the thrilling sound of their own speech. They craved something more—information about this "mysterious field." Before long their problem was solved. Able speakers were obtained, who through their informal professional chatter, catered to the members' utmost desires.

Through the efforts of the Bench and Bar, other colleges have formed similar groups. On the Duke campus it has been of great help in aiding the undergraduate pre-legal student in his choice of courses and has filled an important role in the formation of future lawyers.

ANOTHER year, another colossal Hoof 'n' Horn show. "Lovintime," Hoof 'n' Horn's 1949 production, astonished students and local citizens as well, with those professional qualities which made it seem more like a Broadway hit than a musical produced in a non-theatrical school.

Bill Whalen, dancing lead of Hoof 'n' Horn's 1948 production, directed "Lovintime." Of course, everybody missed Bill's terrific tap routine, but no director could have done a better job. Cute Skippy Prosser, dancing lead, agilely tripped the light fantastic throughout the production and proved to the audience that she is accomplished in just about every form of dancing.

A real Hoof 'n' Horn trouper, Al Sugarman filled in the gaps with his hilarious remarks.

What a "Travelin' Man" he made! Also on the humorous side was Jack "Bop" Stewart with his Be-Bop singing. His latest—"Bach to Bop."

Joanne Nagel will always be remembered for her throaty rendition of "Primitive Love Song" and her flirting with cave man P. J. Thomas. Little "Pedie" Gift and Bob Melton uncovered the romantic element of "Lovintime" by sweetly warbling "Springtime Serenade." And why didn't someone say that Liz Frost could sing like that? Her interpretation of "Harlem Blues" was really torchy.

A troupe of modern dancers added finesse to the production while the customary tap chorus did their stuff. And never to be forgotten is Blitz Berlin's rendition of "I Don't Need Moonbeams." From the opening night of the show until school was out, the tune was hummed and whistled all over campus. A twenty-piece orchestra kept the rhythm of the eleven songs composed by Duke students. Five of these were compiled into a book published by a large music company.

Hoof 'n' Horn Club has been an organization on the Duke University campus since Peter Callahan and Tom Mackie, '36, named it after the mythical character Pau, and Duke's mascot, the Blue Devil. It was patterned after the Triangle Club of Princeton and the Mask and Wig Club of Pennsylvania.

Past Hoof 'n' Horn shows that have rocked Duke campus are "Say When," 1941; "The Laugh's the Thing," 1942; "Stand By," 1943; "Too Many Goodbyes," 1944; "Calcutta," 1946; "Idol Chatter," 1947; and "Nuthin' Like It," 1948.

With Tina Bell as president in 1949-1950, the club put on a gay musical set in the never-to-be-forgotten roaring twenties. Prixy Bell's active crew was: Andy Doherty, vice-president; Robert Fearing, Adviser; Barbara Cruthers, corresponding secretary; Dick Blair, business manager; Gay McLawhorn, recording secretary; a good cast and many behind-the-scenes workers. Results? Even Pan himself would clap his famous hooves in wholehearted approval!

PAGE Auditorium's lights dim, a hush falls over the audience, and the curtain rises. Several acts later, after many loudly-applauded curtain calls, Duke's playgoers file out, enthusiastically acclaiming the success of another Duke Players production.

Founded in 1931 by A. T. West, Duke Players was created to supply an outlet for those students on the campus interested in dramatics and to provide a new kind of entertainment for the student body. With regard to these objectives, the organization not only offers aspiring actors and actresses an opportunity to try their skill before the footlights but also gives others who are interested a chance in the various phases of stagecraft —props, costumes, and lighting. As far as the second aim is concerned, ask someone who has seen one of their plays, or read the reviews in the Chronicle and Durham papers. The attendance records affirm the group's success.

This season began with the production of Bella and Samuel Spewack's sparkling comedy Boy Meets Girl. Set in Hollywood, Boy Meets Girl is the story of Susie, the waitress (Mary Jane McElrath), and her infant Happy, two wise-cracking scrip writers (Don McCullen and Mike Howard), a fading cowboy star (Bruce Baird), and a prominent producer (Henry Homan). This rapidly-moving comedy, depicting one man's idea of how a Hollywood scrip is born, has countless complications and innumerable laughs. Praised by audience and critics alike, Boy Meets Girl provided a wonderful evening's entertainment and was acclaimed a success by the entire campus.

Next on the Duke Players' list of productions was Tennessee Williams' moving drama The Glass Menagerie. Starring in this play were Lawson Crowe as Tom, Boyd Blaydes as Amanda, Jo Reynolds as Laura, and Tom Driver as Jim O'Connor. Because of the playwright's unusual style and settings, this was a difficult play to perform. Surrounding the whole is a strange air of unrealism and imagination, which requires a master touch to put across. The Glass Menagerie was considered the best production ever performed by the Duke Players. The Durham newspapers raved about it, and the Chronicle review complimented the group on a fine production and claimed that they had a "Midas Touch" which made the play excellent entertainment.

Eugene O'Neil's sophisticated comedy Marco Millions was the organization's final effort of the year. Once again critics and audience agreed on the excellence of the presentation and on Duke Players' success.

DEBATE CLUB

EAST Campus' newly-constructed Branson Building this year became the home of Duke's Debate Council. Occupation of these new headquarters climaxed three years of progress. Since its reactivation after the war, the council has doubled its membership every year, until now it includes fifty interested students. Standing behind this increase, and directly responsible for it is the winning record of Duke debate teams under Professor J. C. Wetherby.

This year's competition opened with the Tau Kappa Alpha Southern Division meet. Scene of this event was the campus of the University of Alabama. Ranking among the top fifteen speakers were Sam Scott, Erdman Baltimore, John Maxwell, and council president Bill Tuttle. At the Pinehurst Forum, which featured a program of distinguished speakers from all over the nation, Al Highsmith and Denny O'Donovan edged out an experienced Carolina debate team.

Enthusiastic participation by the council's freshmen rhetoricians characterized the dual meets with Wake Forest and the University of North Carolina, with as many as sixteen teams debating at once. Important spring tournaments were the Southern Speech Association at Birmingham, the Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory, and the Grand National meets.

Professor Howard Hunkel gave a helping hand to Coach Wetherby in completing another spirited and highly successful season.

STRIVING to arouse and encourage an appreciation of one particular art, the Music Study Club recognizes the ambitions and abilities of Duke University women in the field of music. Membership is not restricted to those who play an instrument, but, on the contrary, the club is open to any coed who has an interest in music in general. Students who joined the club this year were secretly initiated in the fall.

In one of last fall's regular season concerts, the group presented Francis Greer and Brian Sullivan, nationally known singers. After the concert a reception was held in the East Duke parlors. Further activity of the group came this spring when several students were presented in a senior recital.

Among the many artists sponsored by the club in the past have been such renowned people as Richard Crooks, Ezio Pinza, Helen Jepsen, and Arthur Rubinstein.

Bi-monthly meetings of the organization are planned not only to entertain the members, but also to further their musical knowledge and appreciation. It is the club's policy to use as many student performers as possible, thus giving the girls the confidence needed to perform before an audience. In addition to the students, members of the faculty are frequently presented in programs. All performances are so planned that they will enrich and broaden appreciation of opera, piano works, and chamber music ensembles, as well as symphonies and solos.

This year's president was Elaine Johnson; Jodie Falin was vice-president; Mary Stormont, corresponding secretary; and Mimi Patton, treasurer. Advising the group was Miss Evelyn Barnes.

COMPOSED of students in the College of Engineering and all freshmen classified as engineering students, the Engineers' Club, a recent addition to the campus, is already shining in its traditions. The dances held in the fall and spring are characteristically elaborate in decoration and are anticipated with enthusiasm. The highlight of the spring ball was the crowning of the Slide-Rule Queen, an annual event. The engineers' siren, usually heard screaming at pep rallies, and "Marse Jack," the big bell on East Campus rung after every football victory, are famous noisemakers of the engineering students.

Again this year many students and company representatives from the surrounding area came to witness the engineering feats performed at the Engineers' Show. One of the outstanding attractions was the television program picked up from Washington, D. C., by a fifty-foot antenna erected on the top of the Engineering Building. Among other activities of the year the engineers displayed their non-technical abilities in a Sing, built floats for the football games, led pep rallies with blazing torches, and entered teams in intramural competition.

Although the Engineers' Club has been in existence only four years, nevertheless it has greatly stimulated a spirit of unity and coöperation among the students of the College of Engineering. Rapidly rising to a place of prominence on Duke campus, the club has coördinated its efforts to foster activities of general interest which will further scholastic and social advancement and to add to the welfare of the students in this campus group. It has been highly praised and acclaimed the "most improved organization on Duke campus."

NEEED a bridge? Not a dental bridge, but a real one for a railroad or river. Maybe the members of Duke's Student Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers would not build it, but they certainly know how it should be done. These junior engineers can put a modern dam or a super highway down on paper, perfect to the quarter of an inch. Through his membership in the student chapter of the A.S.C.E., the student establishes the beginning of professional associations, and in addition his class work is supplemented.

To help the student prepare for entry into the civil engineering profession and the national society is the main purpose of each student chapter. Only qualified graduates in civil engineering are eligible for membership in the national society, but all sophomore, junior, and senior civil engineering students may become members of the student chapter. Such membership entitles the student to take active part in all business meetings, field trips, social functions, and any activities in which the chapter as a whole might be engaged.

Deciding to learn the processes involved in the manufacture of transit-mix concrete, the group made a trek downtown to the Constructor's Supply Company where such processes were observed. To note the progress on the Bugg's Island Dam Project, they took a trip to Clarksville, Virginia. In November a delegation was sent to the National Convention of the Society in Washington, D. C. Between field trips came monthly meetings during which everything from the latest thing in harbors to the irrigation of Arizona was discussed.

A.I.E.E.

TO how many electrostatic units is each electron equal? Any one of the slide rule-manipulating members of the Duke University Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineering could answer: 4.77×10^{-10} C.G.S. No wonder the atomic bomb has everybody confused. Everybody, that is, except these bright boys, whose brains bulge with protons and coulombs. The gentleman who set off this dynamo of knowledge at Duke was Professor Walter J. Seeley, Chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering and National Vice-President of the Institute. Since then (1927), it has been operating under the guidance of various men, the counselor now being Professor Otto Meier.

It might be said that these students really get a "charge" out of their work. They are given an opportunity to do their own research and to gain valuable experience in their chosen field and in related fields of engineering and science. At their meetings, student as well as professional speakers are featured. As a matter of fact, they hold all sorts of meetings—joint ones with the branch at North Carolina State College, meetings of the entire North Carolina Section, and even a trip to Georgia Tech for the Southern District Conference.

At the annual Engineers' Show on campus, the A.I.E.E. turned on the direct current, juggled a few formulas, and came up with man-made lightning, electric eyes, and a host of other mystifying electrical miracles.

But there is more to electrical engineering than blood, sweat, and tears. At the annual "lab" party, they use up excess energy on things other than generators and kinetics. With such an efficient group of engineers probing the wonders of electronics, soon there will be electric eyes for everybody.

FROM nuts and bolts to planometers, Duke's members of the Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers get a balanced diet of every phase of mechanical engineering. In the classroom they crowd their drawing boards with designs for the perfect heating system or air conditioning mechanism. Outside the classroom they view the making of tinfoil or the new power unit at the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco plant, study machines at Wright's Automatic Machine Tool Company, and observe the processing of cotton at the Burlington Mills. It is difficult to realize that these students must digest every one of the many details which make up the field of mechanical engineering.

By taking advantage of every opportunity, the Duke Student Branch upholds the purposes of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. "To encourage original research," a branch writing contest was sponsored; "to advance the standards of engineering," men from the Texas Company and the Anaconda Copper Company were invited to speak before the group; "to foster engineering education," industrial films were shown. As a result, this branch of the engineering society has reached its height in membership and reputation.

More diverting activities were also included. For instance, the regional meeting, recently held at Clemson College, provided opportunity for meeting the writing contest winner and prominent professional engineers. Using their originality, they helped with the homecoming decoration, Engineers' Show, and Engineers' Ball. The faculty-student baseball game offered escape from compression ratio and volumetric efficiency. Of course, there must always be the return to finding the fraction of residual gas of a nine-cylinder four-stroke engine of. . . Oh, nuts!

SHOE AND SLIPPER CLUB

A GAIN this year, Shoe and Slipper gave Duke students two memorable weekends featuring big name dance bands. Last fall the club sponsored Johnny Long who, staging a successful return to his alma mater, included in his weekend performance an informal dance, a formal dance, and a concert. Claude Thornhill was sponsored the previous spring.

Founded in the spring of 1948 for the purpose of bringing nationally famous bands to the campus twice a year, the club selects its members on an impartial basis from the men's campus, never exceeding a total of 1,200. Shoe and Slipper actively sponsors the participation of the younger members of the faculty in order to promote better student-faculty relations, although this is not the official purpose of the club.

These Shoe and Slipper weekends are the high spots of the Duke social calendar and are considered "musts" for all West campus men and their dates.

DUKE AMBASSADORS

DUKE'S highly talented and much-in-demand dance orchestra, the Ambassadors, returned to the campus during Freshmen Week this year, and while the Frosh were standing in lines and quizzing "Y" men, these musicians were hard at work getting the "clinkers" out of a batch of new arrangements. With the exception of Jeff Edwards, ace drummer of the class of '53, the personnel of the band stood intact. This fact facilitated the group's early start, and also meant that the band once again had a chance to attain the high standard set by Ambassadors of the past, such as the Dutch McMillan outfit which toured Europe in 1937, and the great Sam Fletcher band that traveled the big-time circuit of the Northeast with Benny Goodman and Claude Thornhill.

Since its organization by Sunny Burke in 1934, the Ambassadors have followed the policies of name bands in presenting to the student body music for both listening and dancing. Many of the arrangements featured by the orchestra are written by its members, in addition to those by professional artists. One specialty of this year's group is the "hand within a band"—a Bop combo highlighting soloists Benny Steele on tenor sax and vibes, Roddy Shull on the alto sax, Jack Spake on the trombone, Bob Hutchins on the trumpet, saxophonist Fred Whitener, this year's leader of the group, and the rhythm section.

This year, as always, the Ambassadors supplied the music at almost every major campus dance. Some of their more important engagements in East and West gyms were the B.O.S.-Sandals dance early in the fall, and the exclusive Coed Ball on the eve of Thanksgiving. They also met many appointments off campus and out of town. Colleges and organizations throughout Virginia and the Carolinas often called on the music-makers. A series of dances held by the Marines at Cherry Point featured the Ambassadors, as did several functions at Fort Bragg. Duke Ambassadors can look back on a highly successful year, and also anticipate a series of important summer bookings, for which negotiations are now being made.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

J. Foster Barnes, Director

“CALLING all men who like to sing and who can carry a tune.” This is the call that goes out each semester from the Men's Glee Club to Duke's aspiring young vocalists.

Under the direction of J. Foster Barnes, the organization has been heard in every part of the United States. In 1929, the Glee Club made its first appearance in New York's Carnegie Hall, and since that time the members have given an annual performance there.

In addition to the annual northern trip, the Men's Glee Club made its first concert tour to Florida this year. With the reception it received on tour, the Men's Glee Club proved that it is moving steadily forward and upward . . . like a crescendo, bigger and better!

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

Mrs. J. F. Barnes, Director

A LONG row of freshmen and transfers perched on the edges of their chairs in East Duke. Mrs. Barnes called your name; you sang and waited. With your invitation came the beginning of memories that are a part of your college life.

The Tuesday night rehearsals seemed long, but you slowly realized a deep satisfaction in good music. You serenaded the new president, and sang age-old carols on the Chapel steps. The Valentine dance and the Spring concert were written in large letters in your singing schedule. Every Sunday you sang in the Chapel service. You looked up and felt the joy of mingling your voice with those of others and your memories of the Women's Glee Club with those of your college life.

Directed by J. Foster Barnes, Duke's Chapel Choir annually gives a Christmas pageant, the Messiah, and an Easter program.

CHAPEL CHOIR

Mildred Hendricks, Organist

COMBINING the best voices of the men and women's Glee Clubs, Duke's famous Chapel Choir presents choral music at its finest. This choir, known and heard over many parts of the United States, is a great collective group where soloists are incidental to the whole. It is indeed a good cross-section of student life at Duke.

Besides supplying excellent music for the Chapel Service every Sunday morning, the choir also attracts capacity audiences to special occasions, such as the national broadcasts of seasonal music at Christmas and Easter.

When the chapel was opened in 1932, a double quartet of men's voices was organized by J. Foster Barnes, present director of the choir. Since that time the organization has grown until it now numbers two hundred mixed voices. It is one of the most popular and influential organizations on campus and one of the largest university choirs of mixed voices in America.

MADRIGAL CHORUS

A PATHY . . . what's that? The Madrigal Singers, a small choral group of about twenty-five voices, don't know the meaning of the word. A strong feeling for the group and for the music that is sung accounts for unusual enthusiasm at rehearsals and performances.

Smaller forms of choral music; sixteenth-century madrigals, chansons, and motets; songs of such composers as Wilbye, Marenzio, Handel, Bach, and Brahms—these are the types of music sung, and each member of the Madrigals has an interest in them. Although solo voices are welcome, they are not important to the group's success. An ability to read music, a good sense of pitch and musicianship, and an interest in good music are the characteristics of the Madrigals, who attempt to reproduce sixteenth-century informal after-dinner music.

Activities of the Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Mrs. Saville, were many and varied this year. Their first appearance was at the opening service of the East Campus Chapel; later a Christmas service was presented there. There were lecture recitals, one illustrating Handel's setting of "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso" in Dean Brinkley's class on Milton, another presenting different styles of choral music for students and townspeople. Assisting at the modern dance recital, appearing in collaboration with the Chamber Orchestra, and doing several radio broadcasts were the other activities that added up to a successful year for the Duke Madrigals.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

UNDER the skilled baton of Mr. Allan H. Bone, the Duke Symphony Orchestra reached a height of musical perfection unexcelled in any previous year. The seventy members of the orchestra are not only students, but also faculty members and townspeople. A large number of exceptionally able freshmen swelled the ranks this year. Thus for the first time the instrumentation was sufficiently balanced so that it was necessary to bring in only a few outsiders to fill vacant spots. The group this year was the most technically proficient of any in the long history of the Duke Symphony.

The history of the organization dates from 1905, when the first student orchestra was organized. In 1912, the orchestra and the men's Glee Club appeared together for the first time in a joint concert; this appearance began the association of vocal and instrumental student musicians, which in 1920 became the Trinity Musical Clubs. By 1936, this organization had become so active that it was expanded into the Instrumental Music Association with Mr. Robert Fearing directing various groups in it, including the orchestra. He continued in this capacity until 1943, when he left for the armed services. Then Dr. Robert Hall led the orchestra for four years of very creditable performances until the present director, Mr. Bone, took over in 1947. His energy and skill have advanced the orchestra tremendously in the comparatively short time that he has been associated with it.

Each concert given by the orchestra is recorded and later rebroadcast over a local radio station as part of the weekly series, "Music from Duke." The Symphony Orchestra has gained a significant place on campus through its high quality musicianship.

INTERMISSION at a football game . . . the crowd relaxes, many head for the refreshment stand, and suddenly the sound of lively music rises from the field. It is the Marching Band, the lads in blue who provide musical entertainment for the spectators at all home football games. Besides performing in these half-time shows, the band provides musical assistance at parades and most of the pep rallies.

The Marching Band makes one trip a year to football games outside of Durham. In the last four years they have visited Baltimore, Washington, D. C., New York, and Annapolis.

This popular Duke organization has prided itself on the originality of its half-time shows. One of the most outstanding programs of the year was put on at the Duke-Navy game in Annapolis when the formation of the band spelled out "ARMY." Other stunts performed by the group were the triple-revolving "D" for Duke and the "Bop" sequence for Carolina.

All male Duke students who can qualify are eligible for membership in the band. "Terrific" is the word to describe the spirit of the members, who meet with almost perfect attendance to practice twice a week in all kinds of weather. All this is done despite the fact that no credit is given for participation; the only compensation for the work is a letter sweater given each year to those eligible.

When the band played at the Polo Grounds in New York in 1946, Bill Stern, the noted sports commentator, publicly proclaimed it the greatest band he had ever heard there. Allan H. Bone, director of the band, is greatly responsible for its success in recent years.

BACKED by increasing student interest and support, the Duke University Concert Band this year took its place as one of the finest collegiate music organizations in the South. Since its organization in 1945 by the director, Allan H. Bone, this relatively young group has made progress by leaps and bounds. This has been evidenced by the steadily improving quality of its performances at the formal and lawn concerts on campus and frequent guest appearances out of town.

It was unanimously decided early in the fall that the band's "growing pains" were over, and that it was time to move into high gear to bring the group to full maturity. The first step in this direction was the election of Don Draughon to the presidency of the new band board. Tuesday night rehearsals were replaced by afternoon sessions. Mr. Bone became adviser to the various appointed committees. A full program of activities was planned, the highlights of which were the performance at the inauguration of President A. Hollis Edens, the formal concert in February, the three-day spring tour of North Carolina, and the series of lawn concerts. In addition the social committee sponsored a party for the entire music department.

Future plans of the concert band will be of interest to every student instrumentalist on campus. Auditions are held at the start of each semester, although talented musicians are invited to join at any time during the year. Keys are awarded in recognition of two years' active service.

DUKE CHAMBER ORCHESTRA

ORGANIZED three years ago by its present director, Allan H. Bone, the Duke Chamber Orchestra numbers sixteen members. The group is devoted to the performance of works written for string orchestra and is made up of the best available student and faculty talent.

Each year the Chamber Orchestra presents two formal concerts, besides occasional appearances with Mildred L. Hendrix, University Organist, in programs of music for organ and orchestra. In addition to these presentations, the group also stages radio broadcasts and bills out-of-town engagements.

The first formal concert of this season came in February. This appearance was highlighted by the realization of a special theme, and featured solos by Mrs. Dudley Barlow, harpist, and

Mrs. Julia Mueller and Miss Liliane Rufenacht, violinists. Included in the program were Bach's "Double Concerto in D Minor" for two violins and strings; Debussy's "Danses Sacree et Profane;" Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik;" and Porter's "Music for Strings." The second concert, held in April, featured the music of Prokofiev, Hindemith, Vivaldi, and Purcell.

Judging from the warm reception by capacity audiences, the Chamber Orchestra, whose members are devoted to the presentation of the best possible repertoire for string orchestra, is recognized as one of the finest musical organizations on campus. With both students and faculty members making frequent solo appearances with the group, the Duke Chamber Orchestra is a good example of harmony between student and professor.

DUKE UNIVERSITY CHURCH BOARD

SPIRES beckoning over treetops . . . the tourist slows down; the alumnus remembers; the freshman stops and stares; and even the busload of students rounding the circle looks up to catch a glimpse. There they are . . . fingering infinity . . . symbolic of a university founded with "faith in the eternal union." Dr. Cleland's Scottish burr, a hush after the benedictory Amen, and liquid notes of the organ—that's the Chapel.

And in the beginning it was a chapel. No organization, no specific activities, only Sunday services with guest preachers. Then, a few interested students spoke up, faculty members perked their ears, and the Administration nodded. Thus began Duke University Church, Interdenominational. Just a mouthful of words? Break it down like this . . . the fellow who could never decide to join any church back home inspired by the voice of a girl studying to be a Baptist missionary . . . an Episcopalian from England chatting at the International Tea with a member of the Methodist Church . . . a Lutheran girl holding ribbon while a Congregationalist ties a bow for Edgemont Christmas gifts. . . . Mean something now?

The church has become the heart of religious activity and worship . . . a heart that with every beat gives new life via many arteries. Its affiliate members now can be related to their "church away from home" through any of the organizations and fields of work in the church's program, although each member attends the church of his choice off campus. On the afternoons of a picnic or a project at Edgemont, bus tokens jingle as the girls go to help the children work or play. Before there was a Duke University Church, there was no Edgemont Community Center. Again the need was seen, ears perked, heads nodded . . . hands and hearts went to work. Those who cannot thus give of their time can, through contributions, help give Greece a doctor or China a teacher. For the first time the church provides a five-hundred dollar scholarship to help a foreign student study at Duke. These students will go back to their homelands as Christian workers . . . nurses, teachers, doctors, preachers.

This was a year of beginnings for the Lutheran Student Association . . . a regular chaplain, publication of the "Duke Lutheran" monthly, celebration of the Festival of the Reformation. A year of fellowship, too . . . dips in the ocean between planning sessions of the beach retreat, baseball at the Bird Sanctuary, host to the State Lutheran meeting. Does this do any good? Ask any former member—from a Rose Bowl quarterback to an Oak Ridge nuclear physicist. Proof that religion has its place in the well-balanced life.

Why do I believe as I believe? What are the many doctrines of faith? The Methodist Stu-

Episcopalians receive communion in Duke family's Memorial Chapel.

And belief that a person cannot be a real person until his religious life is nourished. . . . And what a dynamic way they have of making a "whole young person" out of every member.

Heels clicking down the hall . . . young Episcopalians on their way to Sunday morning communion. Seven the same evening . . . heels clicking up the steps to Canterbury Club meeting. Working on the Altar Guild . . . ushering . . . serving as acolytes—young people become a vital part of their church. Studying, relaxing, and worshipping together . . . the "eternal union" at work in the Episcopal Church at Duke University.

square dance. Pros and cons of campus morals at one of the Sunday vespers. Supper Club-ing Wednesdays . . . and always the thought of living not only as a Presbyterian, but also as a member of the Church Universal.

There it is . . . the church itself the central agency. The pictures on these pages are but expressions of the church at work . . . a cross section of its opportunities for activity, worship, and fellowship. These pictures are typical of the over-all program, not particularly of each group as represented. Duke University Church, from basement offices to beckoning spires . . . here it is.

PUBLICATIONS

THE myth of Pub Row—home of four of Duke's literary endeavors—is wild, fabulous, and fantastic. “Unpassable to all but the experienced editor,” “frequented by geniuses, crackpots, and untouchables,” “monopolized for the benefit of the chosen few”—these are some of the phrases bantered about by students of the University. When the “iron curtain” of the forboding Row is battered down by one brave freshman, he discovers seven portals leading off a dimly-lighted hall.

Within these seven doors, dwell twenty-five average college students trying their darndest to gain a little experience and show off their dubious talents. The first door leads to the dark room, attended by five lensmen. The confusion of the Chanticleer office, with its dozen potential “wheels,” carries over to the calm “counting house” of the yearbook. The “highbrow” Archive stands aloof from the jokes of D. 'n' D. and the weekly deadline of the Chronicle.

There the freshman finds friendship, fun, and hard work, and becomes part of the myth.

Pub Board, consisting of editors, business managers, elected representatives, and administrative advisers, is pictured in a meeting.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

ALL the organizations on Pub Row, although run independently of one another, are controlled by the Publications Board, founded in 1924, and reorganized in 1935. This board determines problems of policy for and keeps a monthly check on the progress of Duke's five publications.

One of its important functions is the election of officers. Any candidate for a major publication office must submit a petition to Dean Herring. No student may be an editor or business manager for more than one year.

Cordy Crook, Chanticleer Editor

Tom Cookerly, Chanticleer Business Manager

Another job of the board is the division of profits among the editors, assistant editors, and business managers.

The members of the Publications Board are elected each year from the junior and senior classes of Trinity College and the Woman's College. These, together with appointed faculty members and non-voting editors and business managers, complete the membership.

This year Dean Herring acted as the chairman of the board, while Dulcy Peters was the secretary.

Due to its larger budget and the fact that its publication is a somewhat greater undertaking than that of Pub Row's other organizations, the Chanticleer receives much of Pub Board's attention. At each meeting of the board, the editor reports on the progress of the book.

CHANTICLEER

STANDING as a challenge to the staff of the 1950 Chanticleer, the record of nine All-American ratings in fifteen years of competition is remarkable. The last edition of the yearbook to be so honored by the National Scholastic Press Association was the 1949 issue, under Editor Jo Richards and Business Manager John Barber.

To those new members of the Chanticleer staff, this year seemed to be one of unusual confusion and hard work. But Pub Row's veterans knew that nothing was out of the ordinary. After months of hectically writing copy and captions, mounting class pictures and student life shots, changing the dummy, and typing everything a thousand times, we met our February deadline. Here is the fruit of our labor.

CHRONICLE

THE Duke Chronicle has, this year, extended its operations beyond the province of publishing a weekly newspaper. By means of Chronicle backing, a number of issues were spotlighted and strenuous campaigns were conducted to institute reforms. The success of the Chronicle-sponsored student bus strike was demonstrated by the overwhelming support given it by both campuses. With the coöperation of S.G.A., The Chronicle was able to make the student radio station a reality with the funds raised from Celebrity Night.

Under the direction of Editor Treleaven, a smooth-running machine which produced the weekly paper was created. Jule Gwyn headed the efficient business staff, which regulated the paying end of the paper.

ARCHIVE

Cole Smith, Editor

THIS year marked the sixty-third consecutive volume of the Archive, which distinguishes the literary periodical as the oldest collegiate magazine in the South. During its sixty-three years the Archive has been almost every type of magazine, general, humorous, and literary.

The Archive this year, under the editorship of Colbert Smith, has followed the pattern developed last year by R. D. Loomis, who changed the magazine to a quarterly of more lofty literary ideals, incorporating a new format and typography and an original standard cover design which made the magazine more of a creative unit than before. The new Archive was awarded an "All-American" or superior rating by the National Scholastic Press Association in 1949, and was judged excellent in its field by the North Carolina Scholastic Press Association. "Spring and Fall," a short story by R. D. Loomis, was awarded first place by both the Arts Forum held annually at the Women's College of the University of North Carolina and by the North Carolina Scholastic Press Association.

The primary purpose of the Archive is, of course, to supply an outlet for undergraduate creativeness in several art forms—non-fiction, fiction, poetry, and the graphic arts—and it is the business of the editorial staff to choose the best of the contributions.

Handling the Archive's financial worries this year was Business Manager Jack Sisson. He and his staff looked after the advertising and paid the bills.

DUKE 'N' DUCHESS

THE battered old couch in the D'n'D office has an inferiority complex. Surrounding it is none of the aesthetic aura or poetic tranquility of the Archive. In its presence there are never dramatic "news breaks" or hustling reporters of the Chronicle. No one ever stands on its back and screams, "Rip out the front page!" or anything exciting like that. In fact about all that happens is that one or two people sit down on it and laugh once in a while.

Occasionally someone with a false nose has his picture taken on it, or a cartoonist sits down and cleans his brushes on the underside of its pillows, but that's all. The people that move about in the little room are very dull. They spend whole afternoons clipping pictures out of Night and Day and pasting heads of prize-fighters on the shoulders of the pretty girls. Maybe Walt Wadlington takes his camera apart and loses some parts in its cushions, or Clarence Brown sits down and recites Greek, or Bob Jordan reads one of his stories aloud.

Art Steuer, Editor

Nobody remembers when the old couch first came into the office. Some think maybe Chan Hadlock got it once instead of payment on an ad, and others believe that Pete Mass won it at an auction, but nobody really knows—or cares.

It is too bad that this excuse for a sofa doesn't realize that everything really exciting happens right in front of it, and everything that happens outside in the other offices is just for an appearance of industry. It really should be the proudest couch on the row.

With false noses and oversized ears, somber looks and smiles, these people tickle the funny-bone of the Duke campus every month in the humor magazine, Duke 'n' Duchess. The editor, a retiring soul, is in back center.

Al Stone, Editor

DUKENGINEER

The brain trust of the DukEngineer staff in search of ideas looks "soberly" at new magazines.

EXTRA! Extra! Read all about volts 'n' bolts, dams, pulleys, and generators. The DukEngineer, published by the students of the College of Engineering, is hot off the press.

In ten years the publication has grown from a single mimeographed sheet to an attractive magazine that has gained nation-wide fame by being voted the best semi-technical publication in the state by the North Carolina Collegiate Publications Council. Founded in 1939 by a group of engineers who recognized the need for a publication of their own, today it is designed to be of interest to freshmen, as well as upperclassmen and alumni. "DukEngiNews" appeals to the new student; it is about people he knows.

The upperclassman can try to digest some of the latest developments in science and engineering as he reads "Pressecope." And each Alumnus flips immediately to . . . "Dear Alumni," of course. There are articles for the electrical, the mechanical, or the civil engineer.

Here is a unique twist—the readers help write the copy! Each year the magazine sponsors a writing contest to stimulate student research projects. The two superior papers are awarded prizes, and other suitable ones are published.

This year, the DukEngineer was published quarterly through the efforts of a hard-working staff. "Extra" is the word for this prize-winning magazine.

THERMOMETERS, band-aids, aspirin, sponges, and Special Chart—these are standard equipment for the Duke nurse. Whether she's soothing a patient's aching back, forcing a glass tube down his throat, or just holding his hand (pulse-taking, of course), she always has a copy of Special Chart protruding from a pocket of her clean uniform or wedged in one white shoe. When the hypochondriacs' loud lamentations issue forth, each nurse can listen with an understanding smile as she slyly scans it behind a stack of towels. A news-magazine "for doctors and nurses only," Special Chart is published monthly. Under the supervision of Editor Betty Jean Teel, this year it featured nurses' comments on national affairs, various activities of the Duke Nursing School, alumnae notes, new advances in nursing, and valuable medical information. Overseeing financial affairs was Jean Muedrew as business manager, while Miss Margaret Miller acted as the faculty adviser.

Each year's staff is chosen by the retiring editor and is then voted upon by the entire student body of the Nursing School. As a coordinating element, a representative from the publication is always on the council of the Nurses' Student Government Association. These nurses take time from their daily laboratory reports or back rubs to put out a publication that will be enjoyed. The sole aim of the magazine is to interest doctors and nurses, and in that respect it has unquestionably succeeded beyond the expectations of both the staff and the readers.

WITH the ink on their 1949 spring examination papers hardly dry, the Duke Midshipmen upped anchor and set sail for summer training duties that were to scatter them far and wide. Sixty seniors found the "Big Mo" of Japanese surrender fame and her destroyer escorts awaiting them at Norfolk. Upon embarkation, the ships put to sea and set course for Portsmouth, England. Enroute the days were filled with exercises in gunnery, engineering, tactics, and seamanship, and those aboard the destroyers coined a new nautical term, "Heave to leeward!" The visit to Portsmouth was highlighted by tours of the English countryside, a reception by Lady Astor, and the friendly courtesy extended by their English hosts.

All the while, our juniors' duties took them first to Pensacola, where for six weeks they were a part of the Navy's "Annapolis of the Air." Instruction was primarily the same pre-flight course required of all Navy fledgling pilots, but each Midshipman had his “trick at the stick” in one of our flying boats, the PBM “Mariner.” A short cruise to Galveston aboard the light carrier CABOT proved to the satisfaction of all that they “grow ’em tall in Texas.” After seeing the world from the wide blue yonder, our juniors went on to Amphibious Training at Little Creek, and became acquainted with the Marine’s eye view of a landing beach. Most impressive here were the coordination and teamwork displayed, as the aerial bombs and rockets, and the mighty guns of surface ships cleared the beaches of “enemy” forces to pave the way for the infantry.

During this time, our senior Marine students were enjoying the privileges of 2nd Lts. at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va. Hot weeks on the drill field and the firing line with every type hand weapon were climaxed with a four day field problem.

Later in the summer, our latest group of travelers, the contract seniors, joined Hunter-killer Group I at Norfolk for a cruise to Guantanamo, Cuba, and Colon, Canal Zone. The potency of hunter-killer operations, which proved so effective in the recent Battle of the Atlantic, was demonstrated time and again as planes from the auxiliary carrier SICILY successfully led the ships of Destroyer Squadron TWO in for the kill on an "enemy" sub.

Returning to the campus in late September, we welcomed the fifty-five newcomers who swelled our ranks to the impressive total of two-hundred and ten, and noted with gratification that four midshipmen who were Contract Students last year were now regulars. Upon locating the Unit's new offices in the Social Science Building, we found several new faces among the staff officers. We had seen Capt. James C. Fetters, USMC, in the spring before the cruise, but didn't know then that he came to us from "B" Company of the Second Marine Division. Also here were Lieutenants Robert B. Gustafson and

An innocent game of "Battleship" may be serious business.

Robert P. Brewer, both USN. The former had just completed a tour of duty on the submarine SENNET. Some of us had visited the SENNET in Guantanamo, Cuba, during the cruise and had met Lt. Gustafson there. Lt. Brewer came to us from the General Line School, Newport, R. I. Previous to that he served with fighter squadron 2-B at Oceana, Va. In mid-October, Lieutenant Ralph A. Brackett reported aboard from the destroyer O'HARE, where he had served as Gunnery Officer.

After squaring away and settling into campus routine, we entered actively into an unprecedented number of activities. While the freshmen were separating "hay foot from straw foot" and "threatening" each other with their rifles on the drill field, Midshipmen Edward Neely and John L. Sullivan were developing a crack drill team under the tutelage of Sergeant Taylor and Captain Feters. Not to be outdone, the Drum and Bugle Corps took new life under the command of Midshipman Harry E. Carpenter, Jr., and provided us with a snappy "one twenty-eight."

By mid-year, renewed interest in the rifle team had produced victories in more than eighty per cent of its postal matches with other NROTC Universities. Late in the fall, the Commodore's Club elected John Steele to its presidency, and embarked upon an ambitious program. Under the direction of Charles Dorman, Program Chairman, the membership was treated to a series of entertaining and informative meetings. Later in the year, the Club held its annual Navy Ball, which featured the crowning of the Navy Queen. Students of the Air Force ROTC, new on the campus this year, were our guests at the high-spot of the midshipmen's social life.

The finale in our activity this year occurred during June Week, when the Battalion Colors were presented to the Honor Company Commander by his chosen Color Girl at the Battalion's annual review. Other prizes and medals were awarded at that time to those members of the unit who had demonstrated outstanding abilities in various fields of naval endeavor.

An example of NROTC working with something too hot to handle.

The entire NROTC Battalion, Duke's first line of defense, here arrayed in six platoons, the Drum and Bugle Corps, and the staff all under the command of Battalion Commander R. C. Roberts stand for inspection during a dress parade which is presented every spring.

Never underestimate the power of the Pan-Hel Council

WOMEN'S Panhel—or as it is sometimes known, "IFC on East"—was busy again this year carrying out its appointed tasks and ever trying to make things better for those who will succeed us. Rushing occupied time early in the fall. The rest of the semester was spent on improving the Panhel House. Second semester opened with the Panhel Workshop, where much coöperation and pooling of thoughts contributed to a very successful afternoon. Then followed the annual dance and the crowning of the idol of East—the "Man of the Year." Throughout the spring the sorority girls continued their work at Edgemont and other community centers. Official business of the Council concluded with the awarding of the Panhellenic Scholarship.

Bill Griffith, President

Mary Seaberg, President

United we stand, divided we fall—is the motto of the I.F.C.

MEMBERS of the Inter-fraternity Council include the president and an elected junior from each fraternity. Through these representatives the fraternities, themselves, are actually the members of the council.

Their purpose is to secure harmony, coöperation, and unity among the various fraternities for their mutual benefit, and to bring the utmost coöperation between the fraternities and the school administration for the betterment of the University as a whole.

Activities of the council include the yearly publication of the Freshman Handbook, the enforcement of fraternity regulations, revision of the rushing rules, and the sponsorship of a Greek Week, which was inaugurated last year.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

THE first wearers of the Lyre began playing upon their emblematic instrument at Depauw College in 1885. Since then the strains of the Alpha Chi Omega Lyre have been heard in seventy-three major colleges and universities throughout the nation. From these chapters have come 28,000 loyal Alpha Chis, who proudly display a red carnation and the colors scarlet and olive green.

Like all national sororities, Alpha Chi supports many philanthropic projects through contributions of money, time, and work. Outstanding among these is the fight against cerebral palsy. In addition Duke's chapter supports worthy causes in Durham.

Alpha Chis are among the most active on campus. Positions held by players of the Lyre are president of the Modern Dance Club, vice-president and treasurer of W.A.A., and three F.A.C.'s.

ALPHA DELTA PI

OUR blue-blooded lion is not a cub any longer; for in 1951, Leo celebrates his one-hundredth birthday. He takes great pride in a century of slow, careful expansion, initiated when nineteen original founders organized the first secret society for women at Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, in 1851.

Leo wears another blue ribbon, for the Alpha Delta Pi diamond was the first sorority pin at Duke, coming to this campus in 1911. This year Omicron chapter boasts, among other honors, two class presidents, Chairman of Campus Chest Fund, Pan-hellenic secretary, a class secretary, and five F.A.C.'s.

The "lion tamers" for 1949-50 were Anna Lee Smith and Bepie Coleman, each one doing an excellent piece of work in guiding the chapter to live up to its motto: "We live for one another."

ALPHA EPSILON PHI

IN 1909, seven girls at Barnard College of Columbia University in New York planted the lily-of-the-valley in the garden of fraternities. The seed of this white flower with its green leaves spread until today there are thirty-seven flowers blooming in the United States and Canada. This flower is the symbol of Alpha Epsilon Phi. In April of 1934, one of the seeds transplanted itself to Duke University as the Alpha Epsilon chapter. The colors green and white stand for love, coöperation, and all the things that make a happy and successful sorority.

This year the chapter produced the secretary of the Judicial Board, the business manager of the Handbook, an FAC, and three girls who have qualified for Phi Beta Kappa. The sorority as a whole won the Scholarship Cup for seven semesters, lost it for one semester, and now holds it once again. The talented and spirited pledge class continues in making Alpha Epsilon chapter a perennial on campus.

ALPHA PHI

TIMES have changed since 1872, when Alpha Phi first joined the roster of women's secret societies at the University of Syracuse. At the outset, the colors of blue and gold represented the group, whose members lacked the characteristic pin of identification. Now, however, the "badge of gold" and bordeaux and silver gray hues are seen throughout the United States and Canada, proudly displayed by more than 19,000 students and alumnae.

In retrospect, Beta Nu's fifteenth year at Duke was very successful. Cabin parties, dances, and informal get-togethers in the chapter room shared the calendar with work in the children's ward at Duke Hospital and the Easter egg hunt for the youngsters at Edgemont Community Center. Alpha Phi's pledges this year can be proud of their older sisters, who hold such campus positions as F.A.C. adviser, coed editor of the Chronicle, and assistant copy editor of the Chanticleer.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

THE Stars and Crescent of Delta Delta Delta became official when Sarah Ida Shaw founded the first chapter at Boston University in 1888. Gradually the chapters of the silver, gold, and blue have spread like their official pansy throughout the country, until, in 1931, a local sorority at Duke became Alpha Omicron chapter. Today, there are fifty-three loyal Tri Delts in Alpha Omicron, helping to make up over 30,000 women who are wearers of the Stars and Crescent.

This year Tri Delt has two members of White Duchy, four Phi Kappa Delta's, three F.A.C.'s, the chairman of F.A.C., the chairman of Student Coördinate Board, the assistant treasurer of W.S.G.A., and three girls in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. Through active participation in campus activities and worthwhile projects of their own, these Tri Delts carry out their purpose to develop stronger character and a lasting bond of friendship.

DELTA GAMMA

ALTHOUGH Delta Gammas have their roots deep in Dixieland, their chapters have been planted on seventy-nine campuses since the first one began to bloom at Lewis School in Oxford, Mississippi. Members show their sign of the same species by wearing the golden anchor. Their colors of bronze, pink, and blue, as well as their flower, the cream colored rose; have become cherished traditions of the fraternity since its founding in 1873.

The shade of Delta Gamma has spread beyond fraternity members. It has been responsible for work in aiding the blind, in giving scholarships to both foreign and American students, and in starting several orphanages. Duke's eleven-year-old tree of Delta Gamma supports all the national philanthropic and fraternal endeavors, but Beta Theta chapter primarily wants to produce fruits of friendship in the sorority and on the campus.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

THETA'S kite first went sailing on January 12, 1870. Its point of departure was DePauw University, and its destination was to be the whole United States and Canada. In 1928, the kite landed at Duke University in the form of Beta Rho chapter.

During the past year Beta Rho divided its time between working for others and looking after town girls. The Community Center and the National Logopedics were outside projects.

Beta Rho is proud to claim the chairman of Social Standards, a house president, five F.A.C.'s, the president of the sophomore class, Sandals, and the concertmaster of the symphony and chamber orchestras.

Not only was there found the joy of working for others, but President Happy Allen also helped show each member the joy of companionship and association found in Theta love.

KAPPA DELTA

JUST as the diamond symbolizes real beauty and enduring value, so does the diamond shield of Kappa Delta Sorority stand for its goals of true sisterhood and real friendship. The KD's have been as sparkling in the fraternity world since their founding in 1897 as their emblem is in the world of precious stones. Virginia State Teachers' College was the original setting for the social sorority, but today there are seventy-three other schools throughout the United States which serve as backgrounds for the glittering shield.

Sigma Delta chapter, established on the Duke campus in 1912, is proud of the many alumnae whom it has contributed to the national membership total of 30,000. This year the Duke chapter can boast of having among its members the president of the Y.M.C.A. and the chairman of the Student Forum.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

KAPPA Kappa Gamma made its appearance as a national women's fraternity in 1877, when six coeds at Monmouth College entered the chapel wearing their golden keys, the sign of their new sisterhood. Since then Kappa Kappa Gamma has established chapters on eighty-two college campuses in the United States and Canada, and has become known as a group which stands for leadership and high scholarship among its members.

Delta Beta at Duke actively participates in social work, and many of its members hold leading positions in campus organizations. This year the president of W.S.G.A., the chairman of Judicial Board, and the editor of the Chanticleer are Kappas. The social program of the chapter includes open houses, coffees, parties, and banquets. The most outstanding event is the annual Triad dance, given with the Thetas and the Pi Phis, in honor of their collective pledge classes.

PHI MU

JUST as pretty as their flower, the Enchantress Carnation, Phi Mu's are always on the run at Duke, engaging in many activities ranging all the way from Hoof 'n' Horn musical shows to philanthropic work at the Edgemont Community Center. Their activities also include the adoption of an underprivileged European child and contributions to the operation of the Healthmobile in Georgia.

Today the golden heart and hand encircle the lives of over 17,000 Phi Mu's. The wearers of the colors of pink and white claim Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, as their mother college. In 1935, Gamma Epsilon chapter was established at Duke, thus adding to the roll of sixty-five Phi Mu chapters spread throughout the country. The main social activity of the sorority this year was the Pink and White Pledge Dance held in March.

PI BETA PHI

THE Pi Phis' golden arrow was shot from the fraternity bow in 1876 at Monmouth College as I. C. Sorosis. The name of I. C. Sorosis was changed to Pi Beta Phi in 1883. Gradually ninety-eight small arrows have merged into one big arrow as the organization of Pi Beta Phi.

North Carolina Beta chapter was established in 1933 by petition of a local group, Mu Lambda. With Trudy Sanders as president, this year was a very successful one. Campus offices held by Pi Phis are two house presidencies, executive secretary of W.S.G.A., president of Pan-Hellenic, four F.A.C.'s, and president of the freshman class, in addition to one member of White Duchy.

Always remembering the wine carnation and the colors of wine and silver blue, the Pi Phi's close another year with their golden arrows pointing to the sky.

SIGMA KAPPA

THOUGH many a kilometer and bell from its Yankee origin, Duke's chapter of Sigma Kappa is as proud of its tradition as sailors are of their seagoing experiences. The daughters of New England founded Sigma Kappa at Colby College, Waterville, Maine, in the post-Civil War days. The triangular pin of the sorority easily can stand for philanthropy, education, and social life.

Not forgetting the environment of their nucleus, Sigma Kappa's are aiding the Maine Seacoast Mission by giving education, medicine and advice to the despairing countrymen. But like New England ships, their interest ranges far—to Salonika, Greece. There they support two Greek girls at the American Farm School. Here at home, an ambition of the chapter was realized when it won the Pan-Hellenic Scholarship Cup in 1949. This year the Sigma Kappa's continued their very active participation in the social functions on campus.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

IN days of old, a knight's most cherished possession was his shield. In accord with this ideal, the pin of Zeta Tau Alpha is a shield. Since its founding at Longwood College, Farmville, Virginia, in 1898, Zeta's quest has spread throughout the United States and Canada.

In order to prove themselves worthy of their shields just as knights had to do, Zetas occupy themselves with national and local service projects. Although knights could only return to their castles to listen to troubadours, the Zeta's often gather in their chapter room for fun and singing.

Phi chapter built its castle of blue and grey at Duke in 1915. Today, Zeta, led by Katie Wharton has among its members the president of W.A.A., a cheerleader, members of Coördinate Board, Social Standards, F.A.C., a house president, and one member of White Duchy.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

FOUNDED at Richmond, Virginia, on September 11, 1865, Alpha Tau Omega was the first Greek letter fraternity organized after the Civil War. Spreading out rapidly, the fraternity soon had chapters throughout the United States and in parts of Canada.

The Maltese Cross was seen on the Duke campus as early as March 2, 1872, back in the days of Trinity College. This chapter is the third oldest in the ATO family, and has had the longest continuous existence of any fraternity on campus.

In keeping with the spirit of the yuletide season, the annual Christmas Party is one of the gayest of ATO functions. Combining good cheer with the desire to help others, these Greeks entertain a group of needy Durham children with refreshments, the traditional tree, and a Santa Claus who distributes presents to the youngsters.

BETA THETA PI

UNDER the guiding hand of John Reilly Knox, Beta Theta Pi was organized as a social fraternity on August 8, 1839, at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. Following a period of disunity during the Civil War, Beta consolidated itself and continued to expand until today there are ninety-four chapters with more than 61,000 members.

Gamma Rho chapter on Duke campus received the ninetieth charter to be given out by the national fraternity on August 8, 1939.

The Miami Triad weekend in the spring is the social climax of the year for the wearers of the Diamond. In collaboration with Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta, a formal dance is given, followed by a cabin party. Every attempt is made to make this the outstanding memory in the minds of the departing brothers.

CHI PHI

CHI Phi Fraternity is the outgrowth of three older organizations. The first of these was the Chi Phi Society, which originated at Princeton University in 1824. Later the University of North Carolina was the scene of the establishment of Chi Phi Fraternity. Hobart College was the birthplace of the third organization, the Secret Order of Chi Phi. The 1824 founding date makes Chi Phi the oldest existing national social fraternity.

A unique result of the Civil War was the establishment of a chapter at Edinburgh University in Scotland, where many later-prominent southerners had been sent to complete their studies. This is the only chapter of an American college fraternity abroad. Today Chi Phi has thirty-five active chapters and 23,000 members.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

HAVING the distinction of being founded through the coöperation of students in three New York institutions—City College of New York, Columbia University, and New York University—Delta Sigma Phi was born on December 10, 1899.

During the expansion process, this national Greek letter organization appeared at Duke in 1920, when the Stag Club of Trinity College became Alpha Epsilon chapter.

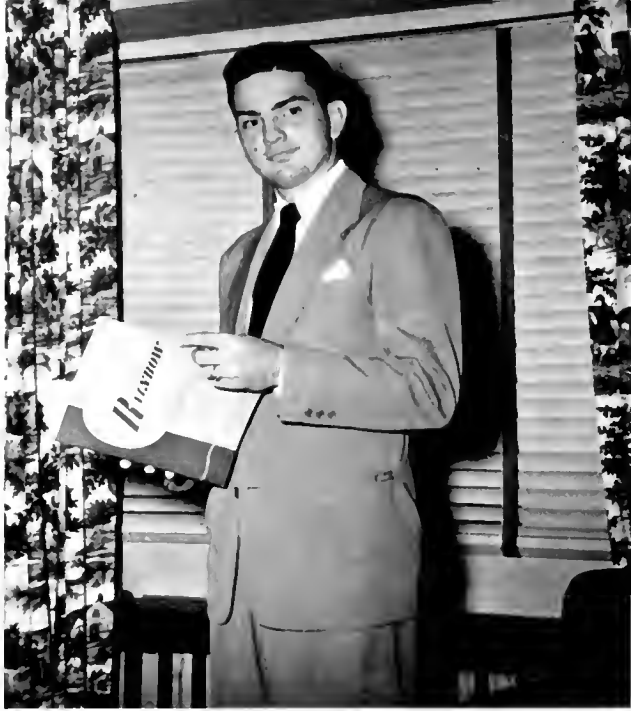

Together with the State and Wake Forest chapters, Duke's Carnation wearers top their social calendar each spring with the Sailors' Ball. Gathering at one of Crabtree's cabins, the brothers and their dates masquerade as shipwrecked mariners. Climaxing the evening, the Delta Sigs select the "girl we'd most like to be shipwrecked with."

DELTA TAU DELTA

ALTHOUGH founded at Bethany College, Virginia, in 1858, Delta Tau Delta regards 1859 as its actual date of origin, since it was not until then that the constitution and ritual were adopted. At the same time the concave square was conceived, which now identifies the fraternity's members throughout the nation.

With the granting of a charter on December 7, 1928, Duke's Delts joined today's seventy-nine chapters.

Rapidly gaining a prominent place in the East campus coed's date book is the annual Delt Queen Dance, which comes every spring. The selection of the Queen is preceded by an extensive advertising campaign, but the final choice is not disclosed until the crowning ceremony takes place midway in the dance.

KAPPA SIGMA

DECEMBER 10, 1869, saw Kappa Sigma take its place among the national social fraternities. Inspired by Stephen Alonzo Jackson, who perfected the ritual and constitution, the Sigs saw the Star and Crescent cast its light over an ever-increasing area, until today they can boast of 117 chapters and 53,000 members.

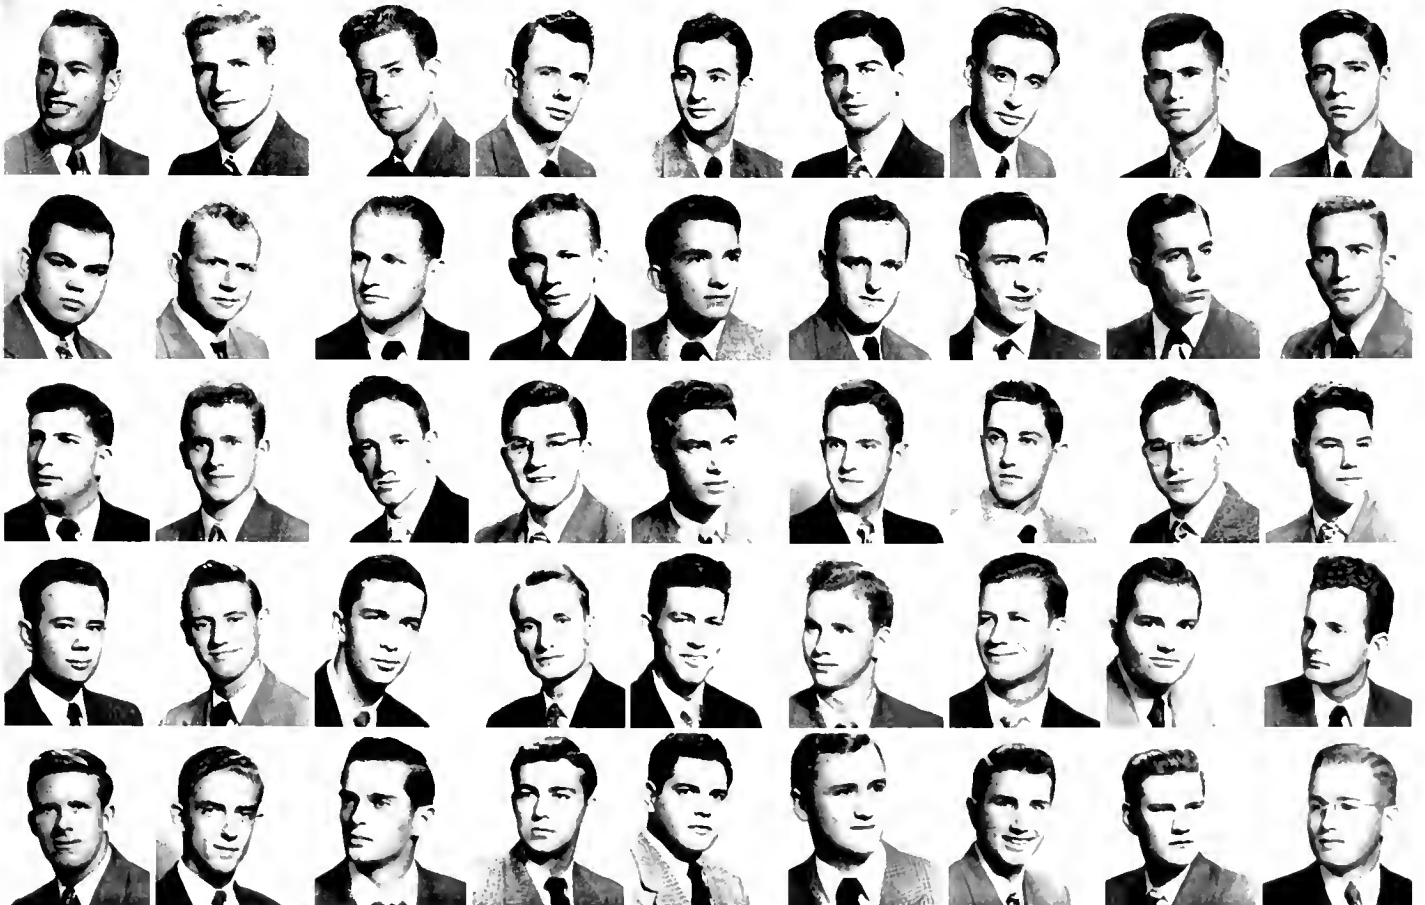

Standing second in the chapter roll call, Eta Prime came on the Duke scene in February of 1873, through the efforts of James Durham.

Topping Eta Prime's social whirl is the annual Black and White Ball, which features the crowning of the Kappa Sigma Dream Girl. The lucky coed is presented with a small gold cup, while her sorority receives the larger cup, which they keep for one year. The choice of Dream Girl is one of the outstanding social honors on East Campus.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

TO three Boston University law students is attributed the idea which materialized on November 2, 1909, as Lambda Chi Alpha. Four years later, when the fraternity had gained a secure place in the Greek world, the Annual Assembly adopted new principles of ritual and new policies. Thus March 22, 1913, is celebrated as Founders' Day.

March 3, 1924, marks the first appearance of the Cross and Crescent on Methodist Flats, with the installation of Gamma-Theta Zeta.

In the spring when most young men's fancies lightly turn to thoughts of love, the Lambda Chis of Duke, U.N.C., State, and Wake Forest are anticipating the annual Four-Chapter formal dance at Hope Valley. Highspot of the evening is the crowning of the Crescent Girl, selected by a national celebrity, such as last year's movie star, Bing Crosby.

PHI DELTA THETA

LIKE the other members of the Miami Triad, Phi Delta Theta originated on the campus of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. It was the brainchild of six students who banded together to form the fraternity on December 26, 1848. From their idea came an organization which today numbers 66,000 members.

May, 1878, witnessed the arrival of the Sword and Shield at Duke. As North Carolina Alpha, it was the first chapter in the state.

Highlighting the Phi Delts' social life on campus is the annual spring Banquet-Dance. This affair honors the fraternity's oldest and youngest members—the seniors and the newly-initiated pledges. PHI KAPPA PSI

SINCE its origin on February 19, 1852, at Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Pennsylvania, Phi Kappa Psi has grown into a nation-wide social fraternity. This expansion is due largely to the efforts of Tom Campbell, who is also responsible for the organization's present ritual.

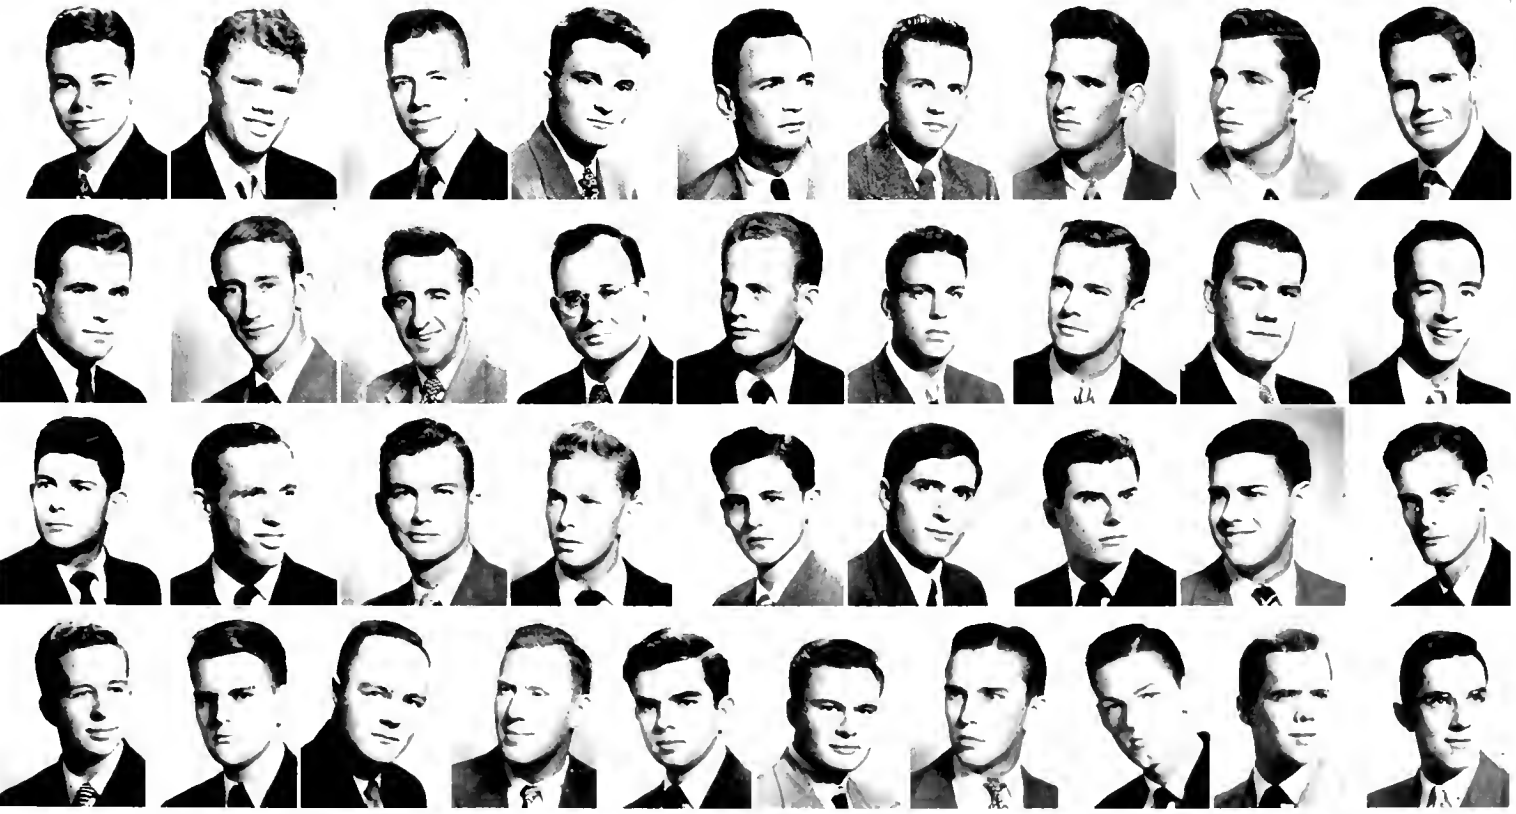

From Delta Sigma, a local club, came North Carolina Alpha on November 10, 1934. Theirs was the seventy-fourth charter to be granted by the national fraternity.

The Phi Psi's started a tradition this year when they joined with Phi Gamma Delta at UNC in presenting the Jefferson Dual. This formal dance is an institution with other chapters of the two fraternities. The grand premier, held at Hope Valley Country Club, also featured a formal dinner preceding the dancing.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

AS Philadelphia is the birthplace of a nation, so is it also the cradle of a fraternity. For there at the University of Pennsylvania, under the guiding spirit of Dr. Samuel Brown Wylie Mitchell, Phi Kappa Sigma came into being on October 19, 1850. After spreading throughout the East, the fraternity directed its expansion toward the South and West, eventually covering the nation.

1935 saw Phi Epsilon Pi, a local fraternity on the Duke campus, petition the National Convention of Phi Kappa Sigma for a charter. Thus Nu chapter was officially established on November 13, 1938.

In the fall of 1950, the fraternity will return to Philadelphia and the scene of its origin to celebrate a century of brotherhood at the Centennial Convention.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

THE one hundred chapters of Pi Kappa Alpha, with a total membership of over 50,000, stem from the University of Virginia, where the fraternity was founded on March 1, 1868. Since that time the organization has branched out until there are chapters in every state.

As one of the five chapters now flourishing in North Carolina colleges, Alpha Alpha was chartered on the Duke campus in 1901. From a small group, the ranks have been swelled to include sixty members.

One of Alpha Alpha's oldest and most revered traditions is the All-State Dream Girl Dance. Originated at UNC, the function was enlarged to include the other four chapters on the state, those at Duke, Wake Forest, Davidson, and N. C. State. This year's festivities marked the Golden Jubilee of the occasion.

SPREAD over the country from Miami, Florida to Seattle, Washington, Pi Kappa Phi's family of forty-seven chapters stems from the College of Charleston in South Carolina, where it came into being in 1904. From its national offices in Richmond, Virginia, the fraternity maintains contact with more than 11,000 members.

Now in its thirty-fifth active year at Duke—the first was 1915—the chapter role includes fifty men.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

FROM way down south in the land of cotton came the idea that was to materialize as Sigma Alpha Epsilon. When Noble Leslie DeVotie, one of the University of Alabama's most brilliant scholars, conceived the social fraternity in 1856, he founded an organization which has grown to 127 active chapters and 75,000 members.

By February, 1931, when the Purple and Gold first appeared on the Duke campus, its bearers were strongly entrenched in the Greek world.

Inspired last fall to give a dance that would be different, the brothers conceived the idea of a Comic Strip Dance. Complete with costumed Li'l Abners, Jatos, and Little Lulus, this dance made such a hit that it is, without a doubt, well on its way to becoming an annual tradition with North Carolina Nu.

SIGMA CHI

UNDER the name of Sigma Phi, a social fraternity was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1855. Discovery of another fraternity by the same name led to the changing of the name to Sigma Chi in 1856. The fraternity today numbers 115 active chapters and has one of the largest enrollments in the Greek world.

In 1912, the followers of the Blue and Gold came to Duke with the establishment of Beta Lambda as the eighty-sixth active chapter, one which now has an active membership of some seventy-five.

Sigma Chi holds the unique distinction of having both a song and a dance of national fame. Beta Lambda follows this tradition every spring during the Sweetheart Dance when the brothers form a circle and sing "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" while the Sweetheart is crowned. This impressive ceremony is one that is long remembered.

REBELLING against a tyrannical military society, three cadets of the Virginia Military Institute established the Legion of Honor in 1869. Out of these beginnings grew Sigma Nu, which today includes 114 chapters and 60,000 members.

Although Gamma chapter did not come to Duke until 1931, nevertheless it holds the oldest charter on campus, the Goblin Club having received it by transfer from the Bailey Law School branch.

Included in Sigma Nu's calendar is one of the most distinctive social functions among Duke's Greeks. This is the annual Apache party, a masquerade cabin party. The brothers dress as warriors, while their dates come in the garb of squaws. One unique feature is an obstacle course set up as the only entrance to the cabin.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

KKNOWN as the Saturday Night Club for a brief period after its establishment in 1901, Sigma Phi Epsilon was started on its way by twelve students of Richmond College. Gaining momentum, the fraternity spread along the eastern seaboard and thence inland, eventually spanning the nation with one hundred chapters.

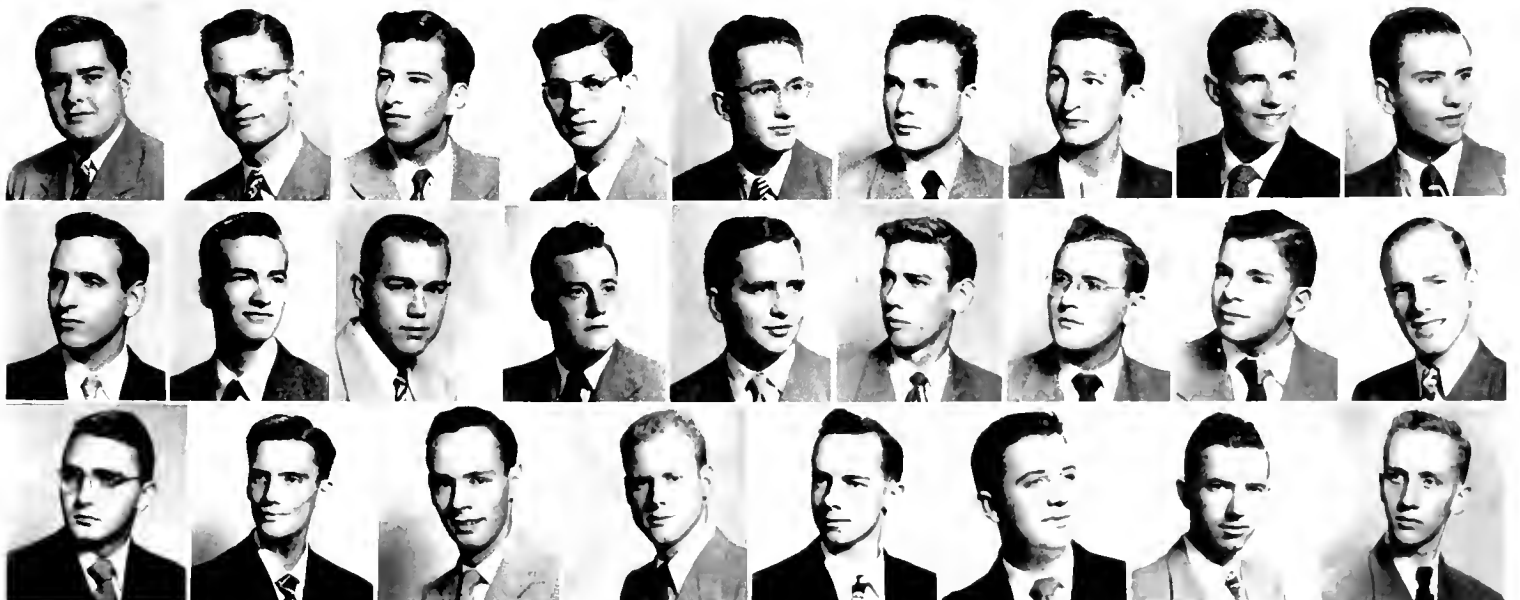

The twenty-second jump resulted in the organization's appearance on the Duke campus as North Carolina Gamma on March 27, 1909.

Gamma's big weekend of the spring semester is the annual Sig Ep Ball. The five Carolina chapters of Sigma Phi Epsilon combine to produce a memorable event. Held in Raleigh, the formal dance, highlighted by the crowning of the Sig Ep Queen, follows a dinner. The two-day affair is climaxed by a cabin party on Sunday.

THETA CHI

CONCEIVED by Fredrich N. Freeman and Arthur Chase, Theta Chi became a reality on April 10, 1856 at Norwich University. For forty-six years it remained a local fraternity. Then, with the installation of a second chapter in 1902, the organization began a period of growth and expansion which resulted in today's 40,000 members.

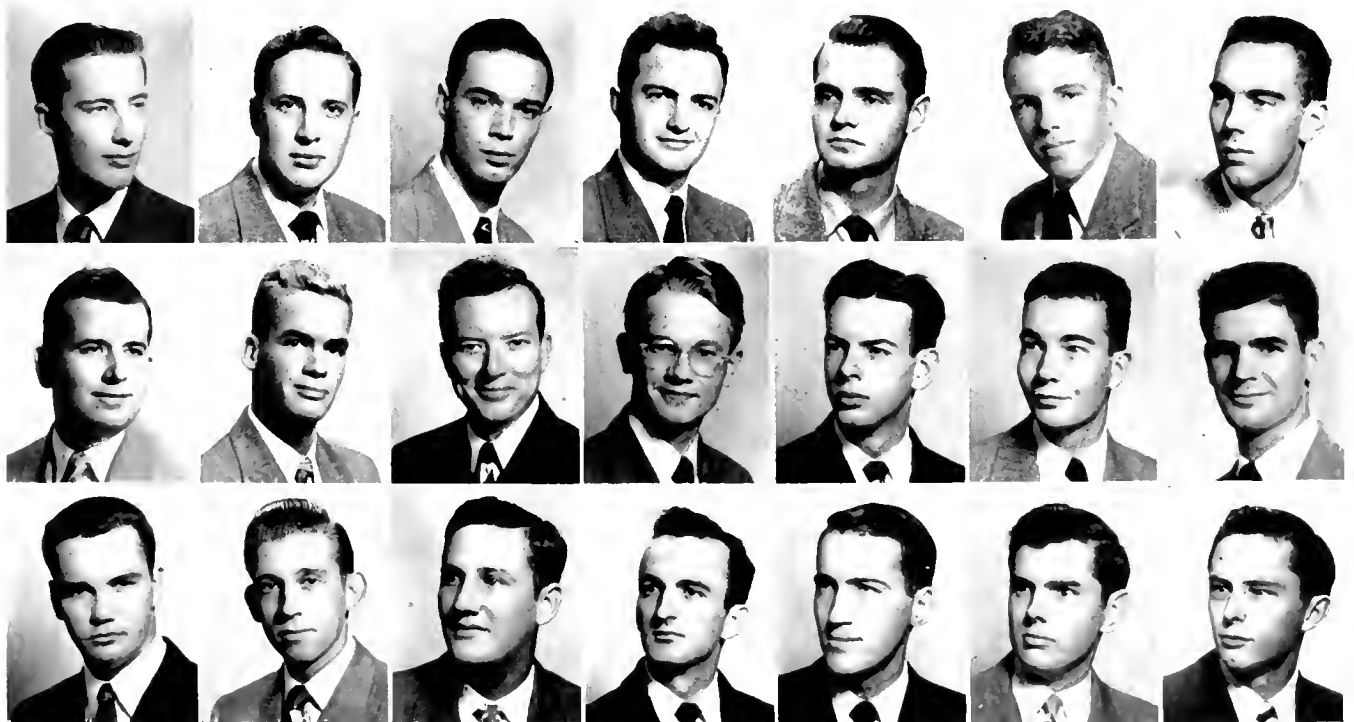

Theta Chi is the baby of Duke's fraternity family of nineteen, having moved on campus in April of 1949, as Gamma Sigma chapter.

Chosen by some prominent member of the fraternity, the Dream Girl reigns supreme over Theta Chi's annual spring formal, the Dream Girl Ball. LIFE

ALL

THE WEEK

ALARGE, bony hand ripped the May page from the calendar and let it fall crumpled into a wastebasket. "Guess that's the last of me," sighed the wrinkled old Blue Devil.

"But wasn't it a lotta fun, Pop?" asked the eager-eyed imp swinging by his tail.

"Sit down, son, you have a lot to learn before you take over in September. I remember how I thought that being the Spirit of '49-'50 would be a series of big weekends . . . a year punctuated by holidays and special occasions. Now don't get me wrong. Special occasions get as many 'huzzahs' at Duke as anywhere . . . BUT . . . did you ever stop to think about all the unspecial days . . . all the weeks sandwiched between weekends?"

The little pixy gave his horn-buds a loving stroke and said, "Yeah, ya do hafta put up with classes and all that stuff."

"It isn't 'putting up with stuff,' Junior. Classes, sings, meetings, little things . . . all become part of your personality, and each year has a personality all its own. . . ."

"Say, wonder what it'll be like with me!" interrupted the young demon. "Give me a clue."

The Blue Devil opened a scrapbook marked 1949-1950, and with watery eyes scanned its pages.

"Let's look at a week or two from this year at Duke. I'm gonna show you the little things you'll learn to love when you take over for 1950-1951." And he turned the page.

Attracted by the natural beauty of the Sara Duke Gardens, an East Campus cued and her date spend a beautiful spring afternoon in idle enjoyment at the edge of the sunken pool near the terraced walks and summer house.

MONDAY

UP in th' mawnin', out on th' job." . . . Back to readin', rhetoric, and rheumy eyes. Who invented the alarm clock, anyway? Can't afford another cut in that class, sooo. . . . Pony, pony, who's got the pony? Now to fight those long hungry Union lines. . . . Oh, well, victuals is victuals. Monday evening, and six thousand conscientious students scramble into assembly with a "veni-vidi-vici" sneer at the clock. Anybody know where to get a book on "How to Attend Fourteen Meetings in Forty-five Minutes"? Remember Humperdink's Shoe Leather Monday complete with buggies, roller skates, and pogo sticks? Them wuz the good ole days, all right!

Humperdink's "Shoe Leather Day" lengthens into a week long protest against exorbitant rates of Duke Power Co., as long-dormant school spirit makes a spectacular come-back.

Bottom left: Students mix home brew in five-hour chemistry lab. Bottom center: Girls get goodies for dinner as special treat. Bottom right: East Campus assembles for report of the black-robed gendarmes.

Tiny checks out the boys. The smile means there will be another bill to pay, and many energetic hours of gym class ahead.

TUESDAY

THEATER night" . . . Nelson Eddy whips up a batch of "Shortnin' Bread" as an encore. The violin weeps, sighs, and laughs under Kreisler's artistry. There must be something Dukesters like about dim houselights and rising curtain . . . whether rising on an operatic duet, Mariemma's Spanish dancing ensemble, or a command performance of "The Glass Menagerie." Applause from a crowded auditorium on "Theater Night" proves it!

But what's this? A chorus of men crooning Moon-June songs in front of that dorm . . . feminine echoes from candle-lit windows. . . Young men's fancies lightly turning? More than that . . . a serenade—the way students say "Congratulations" to a newly-pinned couple.

Pick a typical Tuesday for typical campus scenes . . . that dope shop dash for between-class smokes or afternoon cokes, the almost hourly check for mail, freshmen frantically sprinting to assemble, football scrimmages in the fraternity court, clusters of bus-waiting students, those jet-propelled squirrels around Jarvis, a model-T broken down behind the Chapel, blankets full of suntan enthusiasts (complete with oil, glasses, and a book or two), television's evening crowd in the East campus dope shop. From the Ark to Pub Row, from art major to divinity student, this is the Duke campus that does not show in the catalogue or the handbook. Wrapped in a gauge of rain, buttoned to the chin in a snow jacket, or relaxed under a veil of spring sunshine . . . this is the Duke that students can never forget.

WEDNESDAY

MIDDLE-of-the-week Wednesday is the time for a movie at the Quad or at the Center downtown. That pause that refreshes. . . . Then there is the intelligentsia who plods that path to the library in pursuit of the aesthetic or neck 'n' neck with a term paper deadline. On their way to choir practice are trios, duets, and quartets tuning up for "the Bishop." Precious instruments in tow, blown out, beat out, or tinkled out musicians stagger back from hand practice.

For an even more refreshing pause, ties and "off-the-shoulders" are dusted off for the house dances. And Wednesday is the night (free date, freshmen)! Ready for Thursday's eight o'clocks now?

Top left: Walt Wadlington poses (briefly) with a sexy hook for Marty's benefit. Top center: Bone gestures as musicians grimace. Top right: A few students inhabit the library. Bottom left: Passeti lures the males with free food. Bottom center: Giles tries with a few dance steps. Bottom right: Sanders lures his students to class with a mixed-party in the Pan-Hel House.

Flash! Duke students set precedent by studying in side parlor. Skippy and John hit the hooks on a comfortable sofa and Barbara hits the floor. Study dates are a popular excuse for week-night socializing.

Left: Sure, I guess a secretary should know how to write, but he is a brother. Top: Here is where you'll end up if you pull the right strings.

SCHOOL daze, school daze. And the real memories are those everyday ones—things and people that make up life in the dorm. “Together” is the watchword—studying, laughing, worrying, consoling. . . . And before anyone realized it, bonds and memories are being formed.

Take a Thursday afternoon in any of the girls' dorms. Two coeds stagger down the stairs under bulging laundry bags. The loud speaker competes with the familiar shout of “Fourth for bridge?” The discord of a ukelele-tuning session betrays the “I’m studying” sign on one door. One sweet young thing, hampered by a mouthful of toothbrush, fails to silence a “female Caruso” searching for “The Lost Chord” amid streams of shower water. Two modern dance students leap down the hall and on to an afternoon gym class, ushered out by the sobs of a pin-up reading a letter from her one and only, who's true at Oshkosh U.

But let's journey one mile to the westward and visit one of the boys' dorms on the same afternoon. Surrounded by overflowing ashtrays and empty No Doz bottles, a typewriter is taking an unmerciful beating. Perched on everything but the chairs, some eager beavers are discussing homework for the next day. The course—Sex 91. The familiar "Food from home!" cry causes a stampede. And down the hall wanders a Phi Bete in search of his yo-yo. Dear old school daze.

FRIDAY

FELLOWS with that "just out of the barber's chair" look dash into the dormitory parlors to flip through a stack of magazines, tinkle the piano, and work a couple crossword puzzles until their dates come down. Perfumed and powdered, the girls sign out, and couples stroll to cars and busses for a typical Friday evening. What will it be tonight? Dancing at Hartman's? Movie and a quick coke at Cole's? Dinner at the Saddle Club? Or a sit-sip-and-talk in the Rathskeller? Might be a pep rally complete with pajama parade and bonfire.

Regardless of the choice, when the clocks tick the fatal second, the girls sign back in, thankful for that Friday night break in the college routine.

“PARTY-party, party-party. . . .” Whoever wrote that “Saturday night is the loneliest night in the week” must never have visited Durham town. For on this special night tuxedos are dusted off and formal dresses come out of mothballs. Corsages and boutonnieres, white gloves and late permission—these are the fashion on the week’s night of nights. Dukes and Duchesses vacate dorms and houses, bound for a Shoe ‘n’ Slipper name-band dance, a campus-sponsored “hop,” or a fraternity banquet and ball. A popular “after the ball is over” sport is that pause for refreshment, be it coffee, coke, or what-have-you.

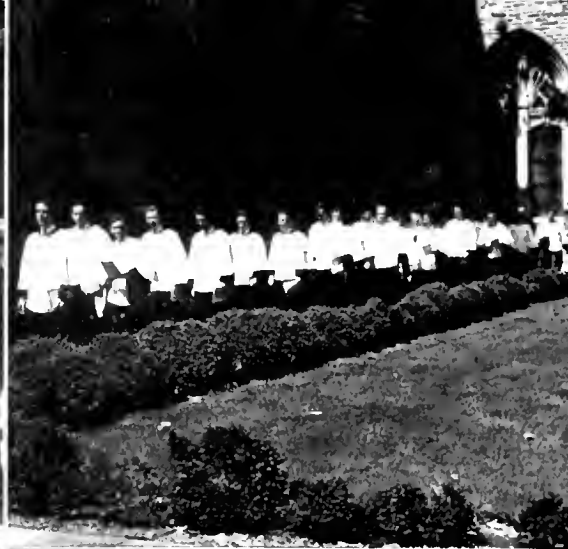

And speaking of special occasions, that big weekend at Daytona Beach was one for the scrapbooks.

SUNDAY

CHIMES call out to East and West . . . busses unload . . . youthful footfalls wear grooves in the chapel steps . . . "Eruditio" comes to a momentary halt, and "Religio" takes over. With quiet meditation, the old week is linked with the new.

In the afternoon, trucks leave for Crabtree and Duke's time-honored tradition, the cabin party. Blue jeans and sloppy shirts, football and bridge, burned hamburgers and firelight singing—book-weary Dukesters pause to relax.

Sunday night sings . . . the campus exercises its voices. "North Atlantic," "Christmas Cards," "Spring Fancies" . . . the audience hums along . . . the memory scrapbook is completed.

Top left: Off to Chapel. Top right: College is not without its cultural element. Bottom left: The Center is crowded to the gulleys with procrastinators. Bottom right: Sing's feature music depreciation.

President and Mrs. Edens beam at new arrivals who came to see their home and enjoy their hospitality at Open House held for respective classes.

BILLY ROSE

The empty throne, the photographer, Social Standards members, dates, and Coed Ball crowd all await entrance of the hitherto secret queen.

BILLY ROSE SELECTS 1950 BEAUTY QUEEN

GADZOOKS and Oddsbodkins! That was the general consensus of opinion in the right royal court circles of King Arthur and his lords and ladies, when Marjorie Arthur, lovely Bridgeton, New Jersey beauty, was crowned 1950 Chanticleer Beauty Queen. Miss Arthur was selected from among ten other finalists by Milord Billy Rose of Diamond Horseshoe fame. Preceded by page boys who heralded her entrance with a trumpeted fanfare, she was crowned by Tom Cookerly, Merlinish Business Manager of the Chanticleer.

The coronation ceremonies took place amid the Gothic splendors of the King's own castle. The throne room was decorated by a purple canopy which completely covered the lofty ceiling and by huge shields encrusted with the crests of the Knights of the Round Table, which hung the length of the long room. A silver and purple silhouette of a Knight on horseback and his lady was placed in back of the bandstand and through the windows on either side of the throne, castle towers could be seen. More shields and coats of arms were hung along the walls.

Miss Arthur is a Kappa Alpha Theta sophomore, whose beauty is anything but medieval. King Arthur, for whom the new queen was chosen, is known to his favorite knights as Al Johnson. His family coat of arms closely resembles that of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

In addition to the loveliness of the queen there was the lustre of her eleven ladies-in-waiting, who were: Ann Goode, Alpha Delta Pi from Lincolnton, North Carolina; Molly Bixby, Kappa Alpha Theta from Detroit, Michigan; Love Lindsey, Zeta Tau Alpha from Ocala, Florida; Betty Heinke, Alpha Delta Pi from Miami, Florida; Gina Mims, Kappa Alpha Theta from Memphis, Tennessee; Barbara Seaberg, Pi Beta Phi from Tenafly, New Jersey; Carolyn Callihan, Kappa Alpha Theta from Ashland, Kentucky; Ann Armiger, Kappa Alpha Theta from Baltimore.

Maryland; Betty Sullivan, Alpha Delta Pi from Macon, Georgia; Laura Duncan, Zeta Tau Alpha from Decatur, Georgia; and Roberta Williams, from Jacksonville, Florida.

It is rumored that after one look at these fair damsels, half of the hardy knights of the court rushed out to have themselves measured for a new coat of "armour."

The members of the Social Standards Committee wore white evening dresses and carried bouquets of purple flowers. During the intermission these young maidens performed a figure in honor of the queen, and the court jesters entertained her further with acrobatic stunts. The queen was crowned with a circlet of purple flowers and presented with a favor.

After the dancing, a sumptuous breakfast banquet was given by the ladies for their lords in their respective moated fortresses. All portcullises remained up until 2:15 a.m. The King and the new Queen, by the by, were not related—just good friends!

QUEEN FOR

ALL subjects in the Kingdom of Neptunalia were gathered for their spring festivities. Around them were crepe paper ocean waves and starfish entangled in fish nets. Making his way through the underwater scene and past the ten lovely court attendants, President Hollis Edens mounted a pink seashell throne and presented a bouquet of red roses to Miss Nancy Hanks, 1949 May Queen.

She was president of the W.S.G.A., a Texan, and a perfect queen. The pretty Kappa Alpha Theta accepted the flowers graciously and motioned for the Neptunalia spring ball to continue.

AMID the gala festivities of the alumni's weekend, Sally Ann Winegeart was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1949 at half-time of the V.P.I.-Duke football game. The pretty nurse and her attendants marched to the center of the field, where Mr. Paul Sample, president of the Alumni Association, performed the crowning ceremony.

Sally Ann has been attending the Nurses' School since transferring from the Woman's College in 1948. Hailing from Jacksonville, Florida, the Homecoming Queen is a good example of the beauty of the Land of Sunshine.

A DAY

A HUGE crystal ball suspended from the ceiling of West Campus's old gym revolved slowly, its 4,000 tiny mirrors splashing the walls and floor with drops of colored light. Surrounding the dance floor were the displays of seven engineering organizations. The occasion for these colorful decorations was the annual Spring Engineers' Dance, highlighted by the coronation of their first postwar queen. At intermission the "slipstick Joes" and their dates saw Zeta Tau Alpha Bobbie Anderson, surrounded by the eight members of her court, crowned Slide Rule Queen of 1949.

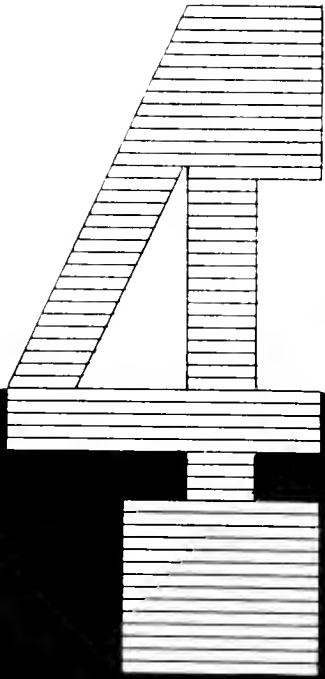

Bobby Anderson, Engineers' Queen

REFLECTING the spirit of the season, Sigma Chis and their dates were gathered at Hope Valley Country Club for the annual Christmas Dance. After a magnificent banquet, the couples adjourned to the ballroom and the dance floor. By prearranged plan, the whirling pairs were soon reduced to six. The long-awaited moment came when the fraternity's president cut in on Mary Jo Stroud, thus announcing 1949's Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. In an impressive ceremony Duke's A. Hollis Edens presented a cross of roses to the winner of one of the campus's most coveted crowns.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

THE letters O.D.K., which stand for Omicron Delta Kappa, are symbolic of outstanding campus leadership.

Candidates are chosen from undergraduate men by the O.D.K. members themselves.

In fall and spring tapping ceremonies the names of prospective members are placed on a giant O.D.K. key in front of the Chapel. To recognize those men whose excellence in leadership would otherwise be left unacknowledged, and to bring about more harmony among the various phases of college life, are the purposes of this organization. An O.D.K. key dangling from one's key chain is a rare distinction.

PHI KAPPA DELTA

IN the spring of 1944, the Duke University chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, together with the student leaders of the Woman's College, saw the need of a sister leadership fraternity on East campus, and made plans for the establishment of Phi Kappa Delta. At midnight on December 9, 1944, they saw their efforts culminate in the tapping ceremonies of fifteen charter members.

As the honorary senior leadership fraternity of the Woman's College, Phi Kappa Delta recognizes women who have given outstanding service to the college community. Its goal is the stimulation and guidance of campus leaders and their organizations, and a better coördination of college activities, so that the Woman's College may render its best service to the individual student and to the University.

Phi Kappa Delta works and plans for the improvement, in unity and spirit, of the University. This year they discussed campus problems, offering suggestions to various organizations, published an anthology of Duke songs, and investigated the possibility of an affiliation with Mortar Board.

SANTA FILOMENA

THE Nightingale Lamp is the symbol of the acknowledgement of superior nursing ability by Santa Filomena, the Duke Nursing Honorary Society.

To be eligible a nurse must be a rising senior; she must show a definite trend for fine leadership; her scholastic average must be outstanding; and she must have proved herself more than just capable in the nursing profession.

Santa Filomena aims toward the betterment of interclass relationships and the problem of higher nursing standards. Prospective members are tapped in an impressive candlelight ceremony, to which the public is invited. The girls who are chosen are presented with small Nightingale Lamps at their installation.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

ORGANIZED in 1904 in the School of Commerce, Accounts, and Finance at New York University, Alpha Kappa Psi was the first honorary fraternity ever formed for specialization in business and management. Open only to those working toward a degree in the business field, the honorary has long been active among undergraduates. This year's series of professional business programs entitled "Careers in Industry," brought to the campus some of the country's leading authorities on American industry.

Setting its sights high, Alpha Kappa Psi's objectives are to further the individual interests of its members, to foster scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounting, and finance, to educate the public appreciation toward higher business ideals, and to promote business administration courses in college.

Since its establishment on the Duke campus in 1929, Beta Eta chapter has been a tremendous help to its members, both before and after graduation. At its meetings, which are open to all students, Alpha Kappa Psi entertains speakers on such subjects as economics, business, and other educational topics. They also conduct industrial tours, work on research projects, and hold smokers, banquets, and dances.

THROUGH the efforts and leadership of professor William A. Hinton, Pi Iota chapter of the National Honorary Mechanical Engineering Fraternity, Pi Tau Sigma was founded on the Duke campus on May 13, 1944.

Organized for the express purpose of recognizing high achievement in the field of mechanical engineering, the honorary aims at fostering the ideals of the engineering profession, stimulating interest in coordinate departmental activities, and promoting the mutual professional welfare of its members.

Requirements for entrance into Pi Tau Sigma are based primarily on scholarship, but the final selection rests on the character, citizenship, personality, and professional interest of the candidate. In the fall, the pledges are required to make a large open-end wrench, red with the letters Pi, Tau, and Sigma on it, which they must carry for one week. During this time the members have to be sought out and asked to sign the wrenches. After their final initiation the newcomers are presented at the Engineers' Ball.

Working together within the group, Pi Iota undertook a number of projects this year to help develop student initiative—since the members must have a high scholastic average and are so carefully chosen, they can set the best example for those students aspiring to receive like recognition.

Officers for Pi Iota were: Fred Hannon, president; Dave Dellinger, vice-president; Arthur McConnell, corresponding secretary; Paul Miller, recording secretary; and James Egan, treasurer. With such able leaders and high standards, Pi Tau Sigma continues to grow and serve at Duke.

TAU BETA PI

TAU Beta Pi is the youngest engineering honorary fraternity on the Duke campus. Its date of arrival, January, 1947, marks the culmination of nearly ten years of planning and work by members of Delta Epsilon Sigma, a local honorary engineering society formed with the express purpose of petitioning the Tau Beta Pi Association. In that year the Duke chapter was unanimously accepted by the national convention.

Those eligible for membership are the undergraduates in the College of Engineering. In order to be considered as a candidate, a student must show himself to be of exemplary character and must have distinguished himself in scholarship.

Although Tau Beta Pi is a baby at Duke, the father fraternity was born seventy-five years ago at Lehigh University. For seventeen years outstanding students of Duke's College of Engineering have belonged to the Honorary's forerunner, Delta Epsilon Sigma. Now there are many charter members, including past presidents of the organization.

The purpose of this well-established and revered engineering fraternity is to recognize those undergraduate men who, through their superior character and high scholarship, have earned the respect of their fellow engineers, as well as that of others who know them.

Tau Beta Pi's officers for this year were Ed Warnick, president; Frank Chapman, Vice-president; John Rudisill, recording secretary; John Underwood, treasurer; and Dean Hall, adviser.

Although Tau Beta Pi is new on the Duke campus, and has not had time to become set in its traditions, still it is and shall continue to be a beneficial influence on engineering standards.

Through B.O.S., Sophomore wheels start down the long road to campus fame

IN 1917, a group of students interested in developing school spirit and tradition, founded Beta Omega Sigma. B.O.S., as it is known on campus, honors those second-semester freshmen who have attained a "C" average and who have earned the number of activity points required for consideration for membership. Points are based on the importance of the student activity and the amount of leadership required to successfully complete the work. The chief objectives of this organization are to foster and to encourage wholesome student participation in all of the many campus activities; to set up plans and requirements for membership designed to interest freshmen in establishing leadership in the many activities for which they

On the road to success, prominent girls discard walking shoes in favor of Sandals

THE word Sandals spelled out in white upon a background of blue ribbon means that its wearer is one of the twenty girls who have been chosen for the honor of serving the Woman's College campus throughout their sophomore year. She is a girl who was selected at the end of her freshman year to be a member of this honorary. Careful consideration is given to the choice of each member. There are four qualifications upon which this choice rests. One of these is outstanding scholarship, a second is leadership, a third is character, and the fourth is service.

This past year the Sandals were a great aid to freshman girls in helping them to become oriented to their new college life. They also are eligible; and to sponsor and support any program which is devised primarily in the interests of the freshman class.

During this past year B.O.S. has produced a fine record of many well-done jobs. Before the opening of school they sent Duke stickers to all incoming freshmen men. Shortly after the beginning of the fall semester they cooperated with the Sandals in giving the annual B.O.S.-Sandals Ball. They were in charge of freshman guidance in extra-curricular activities such as house socials. During the football season they decorate the goalposts for the home games and aid the cheerleaders with pep rallies. Preceding the Duke-Carolina game, members of B.O.S. supervised the building and guarding of the freshman bonfire. Besides giving their time and energy for the benefit of the freshmen, B.O.S. had several social gatherings with Sandals.

graded freshman placement exams at the beginning of the year. Another job they did was to take attendance at all of the W. S. G. A. assemblies. It is the Sandals who act as hostesses at the Ark, keeping it open for those who wish to dance or talk. One important activity was the presentation of the first semi-formal dance of the year, which took place soon after the opening of school in the fall. It was given jointly with the B. O. S.

The Sandals consider one of their noteworthy achievements to be the redecoration of the Ark. Equipment bought with their own money has made it more comfortable and enjoyable, and has given students an on-campus dance floor as well as ping-pong tables and bowling alleys.

Sandals is truly an honorary, since its membership is limited to only twenty girls from the sophomore class.

As ivy scales a wall, these gals scale the heights of scholastic achievement

DURING the tapping ceremony for Ivy, scholastic honorary for women, an ivy leaf is presented to each eligible freshman. Tapping takes place twice a year, once in the fall and again in the spring. To get her ivy leaf and become a member, a girl must have an average of 2.25 quality points on no less than fourteen semester hours for her first semester, or the same number of quality points on no less than twenty-eight semester hours for her entire freshman year. These standards were set up by the women's class of 1940, when they founded Ivy on February 15, 1937.

Ivy has a three-fold goal. In addition to giving the freshman incentive to study and stimulating their intellectual curiosity, it aids each one in

Wisdom and quality points are the claims to fame of these future Phi Betes

THE encouragement of high scholastic attainment among the men of the freshman class is the purpose of Phi Eta Sigma. Eligibility is determined by a quality point average of 2.25 for the first semester's work or 2.5 for the entire freshman year. Not only does this honorary fraternity reward those freshmen who attain scholastic heights, but it also aids them on their way. In coöperation with the men's F. A. C., it advises freshmen in regard to their work and arranges for tutors for those men desiring or needing them.

March 22, 1923, marks the founding date of Phi Eta Sigma at the University of Illinois. Eight years later it was established here at Duke. It now has a total of seventy-one chapters in institu-rounding out her personality. The honorary presents a challenge to every member of the freshman class to value the building of character and the gaining of knowledge rather than the earning of quality points.

Sophomore Ivy members take an active part in campus activities. They are present as assistants at many programs and campus-wide affairs. At the halfway mark of the semester they sponsor a coffee hour at which a member of the faculty is invited to be guest speaker. During this past year they have acted as marshals for the Student Forum lectures and the Nereidian Pageant.

Serving as this year's president was Blair Bowers; her assistants as vice-presidents were Sue McMullen and Nancy Peeler. Acting as secretary was Pat Purviance, Carolyn Bogard as treasurer, and Miss Ellen Huckabee as advisor.

tions throughout the country and has a national membership of 30,614.

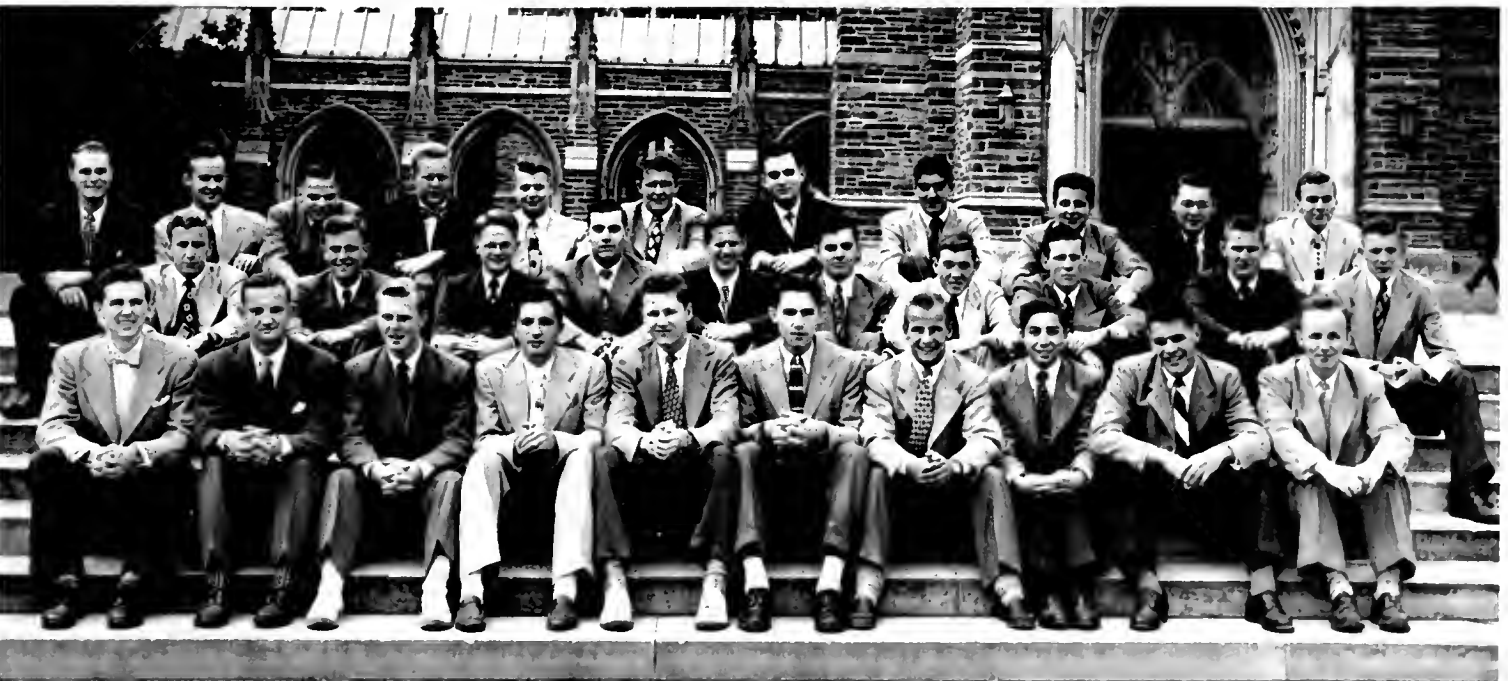

One of the organization's past activities was an initiation banquet which was given in the spring for those men fulfilling Phi Eta Sigma requirements. In the future are plans for the tenth biennial convention to be held in 1950 at the University of Texas in Austin, where it is expected that Duke will be well represented.

Three past members of which the organization is justly proud are: Thomas Arkle Clank, who donated a fund from which two outstanding members of the national fraternity are each awarded $300 annually for the furtherance of their educations in graduate school; G. Herbert Smith, the president of Willamette University in Salem, Oregon; and Fred H. Turner, Dean of the University of Illinois, and editor of the fraternity's national publication, the Forum.

SIGMA Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary fraternity, was founded in 1919 at the University of California in Berkley. Alpha Theta Chapter was founded at Duke University in 1936. Since its beginning Sigma Delta Pi has constantly expanded its membership and now boasts of fifty chapters in universities throughout the United States.

Membership is limited to those students who have achieved a "B" average through the third year of college Spanish, as well as an overall scholastic average of 1.6 quality points. Members of the fraternity not only include Spanish majors, but also those students who have an active interest in Hispanic culture and background.

Tau Psi Omega has mastered past perfect—

PARLEZ-vous francais? The members of this honorary must be able to speak and understand the French language. In 1938, M. and Mme. Neal Dow decided that Duke needed an organization which would unite those students especially interested in French. Those enrolled in classes must attain a "B" average for one year of college French or the equivalent. However, this is not restricted to majors in the language or even to those currently attending classes; basic qualifications of a good academic average and a sincere interest in the study of the language are required of the last two groups.

Tau Psi Omega's purpose is to further the study of the French language. Through this study its members will also learn much about

The purpose of Sigma Delta Pi is to develop a wider knowledge of and a greater love for the Hispanic contributions to modern culture; to foster friendly relations and a coöperative spirit among Spanish and English speaking nations; to stimulate a genuine interest in Spanish culture in all the colleges and universities where there are chapters; and to honor those who have shown special interest and attainment in the study of the Spanish language.

During the past year, Sigma Delta Pi has engaged in many activities. These include open houses, where the society entertained prospective members, an initiation banquet, and a Christmas party.

The fraternity holds monthly meetings of a social and business nature. As a result of these informal meetings, members become better acquainted with others.

the country and its history, increase their knowledge of French customs, and understand the people more thoroughly.

Several of the bi-monthly meetings each semester are chosen as dates for open houses. To these social occasions are invited those interested in and qualified for membership. Initiations are held twice a year. At other meetings, short French plays or skits are given. Speakers are often invited to lecture and there are usually several movies presented during the year. Besides these activities Tau Psi Omega usually gives one three-act play in the spring. Last years presentation was Moliere's Le Tartuffe.

The president for 1949-1950 was Bill Douglas; Carolyn Morse was vice-president; Sally Malkasion, secretary; Lacy Stallin, treasurer; and M. and Mme. Dow served in the capacity of advisors.

KAPPA Chi, established at Duke in 1943 to replace the Undergraduate Ministerial Association, is the honorary fraternity for pre-theological students. The chapter is open to undergraduates who are preparing themselves for the Christian ministry. Not only is the organization one of religion, but it is one of service as well.

Every Thursday evening the fraternity meets to gain valuable stimulation, mental and spiritual. Their diversified programs offer lectures, discussions, dinner meetings, and worship services, which are supplemented by a period of worship and meditation each Wednesday morning in the York Chapel. It is through these meetings that the members become unified and Engineers wear shamrock and manipulate slide rule as proud members of St. Pat.

THE Order of St. Patrick, a local honorary engineering society, was first organized on the campus of Duke University in June, 1945. Patterned after organizations of a similar nature in other colleges throughout the nation, the Order immediately achieved prominence in campus-wide activities, as well as among the various societies in the College of Engineering.

Members are chosen from the junior and senior classes of the engineering college on the basis of contributions to their school and on their qualities of leadership. St. Patrick does not offer membership merely as a formality, but actively promotes the necessary training work that is invaluable to an engineer after graduation. Therefore membership in this honorary fraternity not that they band together to foster their mutual ideas of service and religion.

Within the fraternity there is a plan to help the members intellectually, spiritually, and socially. To accomplish this, they set up certain scholastic requirements for pledges; they emphasize worship and encourage members to maintain daily devotions; and they hold a wide variety of social functions, such as cabin parties and square dances.

Their service, however, is not limited to the chapter itself, for they undertake numerous worthy projects to help those who are in need. Holding parties for underprivileged children, taking food to needy families, and conducting church services are some of the more noteworthy of their activities. In 1947, Kappa Chi crowned their achievements with the establishment of an interracial church in Durham.

only aids the student while he is in college, but helps to prepare him for situations he will encounter in his later work.

In September, the Order sponsored an open house for the freshman engineering class to acquaint them with the various functions and organizations of the College. This year the Order has devoted a great deal of its time to a complete revision of its Constitution and By-Laws. Under the new system it is felt that the engineering student will have a better understanding of the Order of St. Patrick and will know what the Order expects of him, and can offer to him, thus furnishing a desirable and attainable goal toward which to work. The group was led during the year 1949-50 by the following officers: Tom Ladshaw, president; Gene Chesson, vice-president; Bill Hooven, treasurer; and Professor Vail, secretary and adviser.

CHI Delta Phi, an honorary literary fraternity for women, was founded at the University of Tennessee by Charles R. Morse in 1919. In 1922, the women of Trinity College felt the need of an organization similar to the men's literary groups, and the Zeta chapter of the national society Chi Delta Phi was established here on campus.

Membership is limited to those upperclassmen who have done superior work in literary composition. "The aims of Chi Delta Phi are to encourage participation in the different fields of writing—poetry, the short story—and to provide recognition in literature for those whose creative work has been outstanding." Above all, it provides a meeting place where these aspiring

These dramatic aspirants light the magic lamp of the theater with talent

THETA Alpha Phi, national honorary fraternity for dramatics, was founded at the University of Chicago in 1919. The Duke Alpha chapter, the only one in North Carolina, was established in 1925.

"The objectives of this fraternity are to increase interest, stimulate creativeness, and to foster artistic achievement in all of the allied arts and crafts of the theater." In keeping with this aim, Theta Alpha Phi has as its motto: "The purpose of playing . . . is to hold, as 'twere, the mirror up to nature." Members enjoy the privilege of going backstage to talk with the actors, actresses, or technical workers of any professional production that is performed on the Duke University stage.

During the past year Theta Alpha Phi spon-authors can talk over their mutual problems in writing, profiting by friendly and constructive criticism. Members of the fraternity contribute material to the Archive and to the other publications on the campus.

Chi Delta Phi sponsors an annual prose and poetry contest on East campus. The members judge the work submitted themselves, thus giving them experience in the criticism and selection of literary compositions. The fraternity sponsors lectures and reading for all people interested in the field of letters, and concentrates on becoming better acquainted with the members of the English department.

sored and produced a Sunday Night Sing in conjunction with Duke Players, and provided entertainment for the May Queen and her court at the Spring Coed Ball. During the summer many of the members worked with stock theaters in various parts of the country. Theta Alpha Phi has encouraged cooperation with Duke Players by offering its members as directors of one-act plays. It has also worked closely with Hoof 'n' Horn and helped in the production of several French plays on campus.

Undertaking the leadership of the fraternity this year were gavel-wielding Alex McFadden as president; hard-working Sally Prosser, vice-president; pencil-pushing Cilia McElroy, secretary; and book-balancing Jack Pfann, treasurer. Mr. Kenneth J. Reardon acted as faculty adviser, and the student body as a whole was the critic, applauding a successful year for Theta Alpha Phi.

THE Varsity "D" Club, as it is known today, was organized in the fall of 1940, the outgrowth of several earlier organizations for lettermen. There was the "T" Club in 1925. A year later, its members were also included in a Varsity Club.

Anyone who has won a letter in any major or minor sport or has been an intramural manager is eligible for membership in the club. During their initiation, all new members are required to wear for two days the uniform of their sport at all times.

The objective of the "D" Club is to raise school spirit to new heights at Duke. In addition to this aim, it is also working to improve relations with other institutions.

DELTA Phi Rho Alpha, a local honorary athletic society, was founded in 1921 by a group of girls who wished to give recognition to those who had excelled in sports and as an answer to demands for better organization of athletic activities. New members are selected on the basis of their achievements in various sports, their leadership abilities and in their active participation in campus athletics. Each year seven sophomores and two juniors are invited to membership. On initiation day, future members can easily be spotted by their traditional "goat" costume of heavy black stockings, one black and one white shoe, a middy blouse, and a short black skirt. Last spring the "D" Club entertained visiting high school students with a high school field day. The guests were escorted to a basketball game, followed by a barbecue dinner. Also, for the past three years, club members have selected the sponsors for the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament held in the Duke indoor stadium, and escorted the young ladies to the games, where they were presented. At the close of the tournament, they were hosts at a dance honoring members and officials of visiting teams.

The varsity "D" Club had as guest speaker in the fall, Dr. A. Hollis Edens, who said of this organization, "This club is one of the most powerful groups in the University."

The aim of Delta Phi Rho Alpha is to promote wider intramural activities on the woman's campus and to encourage athletic participation in individual sports. In keeping with this objective, Delta Phi Rho Alpha presents a cup at the end of each school year to the sorority and the house that have accumulated the largest number of points in the various athletic competitions during the year. In addition, it also awards a gold key to the senior who has in her four years at Duke shown the most outstanding ability in the field of leadership and athletic activities. Delta Phi Rho Alpha works jointly with the W. A. A. Board in promoting better participation in athletics among Duke's coeds. In the past the members have also played in games against the faculty and helped with Kite Day.

PI Mu Epsilon, the national honorary mathematics fraternity, was founded at Syracuse University in 1914. Eighteen years later, North Carolina Alpha, the first chapter to be founded in the state, was installed at Duke University.

The purpose of Pi Mu Epsilon is to promote mathematical scholarship among students in academic institutions of university grade by electing members according to their mathematical and over-all proficiency. To be eligible for membership a student must have completed mathematics courses through integral calculus with at least a "B" average, and attain a "B" average in his remaining studies. Membership in this fraternity is considered the highest honor that can be achieved by a student majoring in mathematics. After graduation, membership in Pi Mu Epsilon is of still greater value in applying for positions in the business world.

A gold key containing the Greek letters Pi Mu Epsilon distinguishes its wearer as a member of the national honorary fraternity. New members are initiated each semester, at which time a guest speaker is heard. The other meetings, held twice monthly, are devoted to the general discussion by members of the club on subjects that they wish to have interpreted, classified, or explained. The members feel that they will accrue more benefits from the club if a panel is held instead of a lecture, wherein ideas are freely exchanged and questions asked. During the past year, this new addition to the club's activities has proved very successful.

The faculty advisor for the group is Dr. H. H. Elliott of the mathematics department. The student officers for this year were: John G. Putnam, Jr., President; Edwin Webb, Vice-President; Janet Henchie, Secretary; and Robert Gossett, Treasurer.

COMPLETING their five game schedule without a defeat, the 1949 Blue Imps proved to be the best frosh outfit since the 1942 team. Coaches Horace Hendrickson, Bob Cox, Bill Davis, and Bill Duncan moulded the star-studded squad into a varsity-bound team.

Wake Forest's Baby Deacons were the first to succumb to the powerful Imps. Conrad Moon's eighty-eight yard return of the second half kick-off was the highlight of the 19-13 victory. Charlie Smith, Billy Eanes, Bill Keziah, and Chris LaCaruba played an outstanding game.

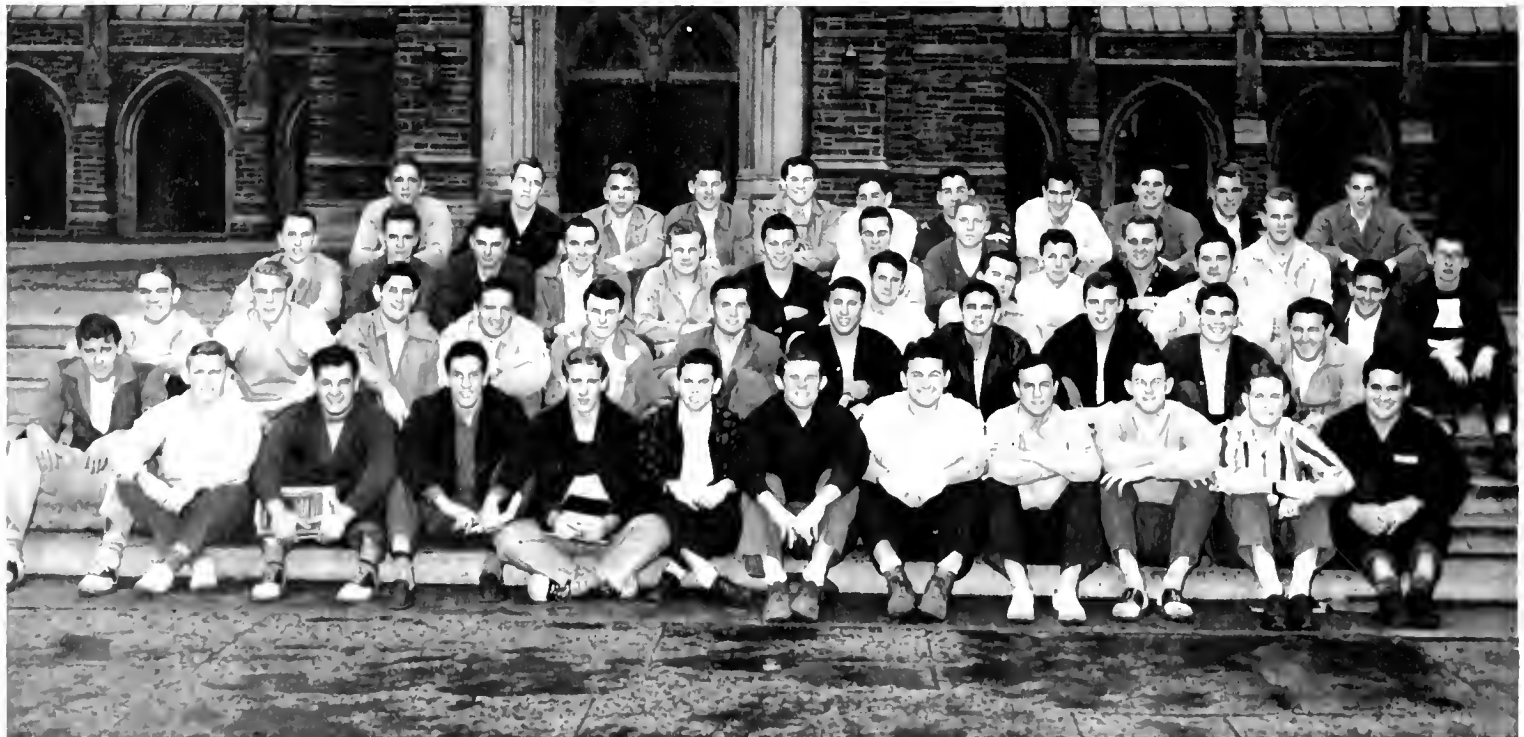

Carson Leach, Piney Field, Dick Sommers, and Bill Smith led the scoring in a 32-0 rout of N. C. State's Wolflets. The team played their best game of the year in this win, displaying good blocking on offense and a tight defense. Ray Green, H. P. Brown, and Carl Holben were the defensive stalwarts of the big frosh line.

Trailing 0-19 late in the third period, the Imps took to the air with passes by Eanes and Smith to defeat the Navy Plebes 20-19. Although Field, Keziah, and Moon scored the touchdowns, Green's extra point provided the winning margin.

With the running attack stopped, Eanes passed to Keziah for the first score, and Smith threw to Field, the standout of the game, who ran seventy-five yards for the other tally. Thus, the Imps gained their fourth victory at the expense of William and Mary's freshman team by a 13-2 score.

A combination of good running, excellent passing, and superb defensive play gave the Imps a 39-20 Thanksgiving Day victory over the Tar Babies from Carolina. Eanes, Field, Green, Moon, and Smith were the offensive stars, while Huffstickler, Lawrence, and Leach played an outstanding defensive game.

SERVING advance notice that this team would be the best in Duke's postwar football history, the Big Blue rolled over the University of Richmond by a score of 67-0

Bounding Billy Cox journeyed into scoring territory on three occasions with runs of thirty, thirty-four, and eleven yards. Jack Mounie and Paul Stephanz each scored twice, while George Skipworth, Jack Friedlund, and "Ceep" Youmans added six points apiece. Mike Souchak kicked seven successful conversions. Brilliant offensive and defensive play highlighted the victory.

“Squirrel” Cox Gives Vols Passing Show in 21-7 Win

PUTTING on one of the greatest defensive exhibitions ever seen in Knoxville, the Blue Devils easily won over the Volunteers, 21-7. Led by Andy Anderson and George Skipworth, the defensive team just wouldn't give ground and even intercepted more passes than the Vols completed.

With Mounie and Friedlund injured, the Devils took to the air with Bill Cox doing the tossing. Cox completed over 60 per cent of his passes, seven of them going to end Tommy Hughes, who put on an exceptional exhibition. Tennessee's only score came against Duke's offensive unit.

HOPES for a truly great season were seen after the Devils rolled over Tennessee. But Bob Zastrow and his middies at Annapolis put questions in our minds when they defeated Duke 14-28.

Tom Powers and Bill Cox led the Devils' losing cause, Powers going sixty-seven yards to score on the first play of the game.

The half ended with Duke ahead 14-7. But from that point on, it was all Navy as Zastrow passed and faked beautifully. The Devils' only consolation was that the highly-spirited Midshipmen scored only twenty-eight points.

North Carolina State Muffs Point Try; Falls, 14-13

WHEN State College's try for an extra point went wide in the final seconds of play, the Blue Devils won their third game of the season, 14-13. Both teams seemed to be feeling each other out and neither one got into high gear.

Following the tradition set by previous Duke-State games, the line play in this year's struggle was terrific. Both teams gained more in the air than they did on the ground. The game had a highly dramatic ending as the Wolfpack completed a short pass deep in its own territory, and ran eighty yards for the second score.

COACH Wallace Wade's gridders ran roughshod over the Gobblers of Virginia Tech 55-7. Following an eighty-six yard drive, Friedlund went nine yards on a reverse for the first of eight markers. Mounie scored the second after Brown's interception of a Tech pass, followed by Friedlund, who went over again behind Allen's blocking. In the third quarter the Devils chalked up three quick tallies as Cox dashed thirty and forty-six yards, and Vian went over from the twenty-eight. The Wild-to-Youmans play was good for twelve points, Souchak converting seven times.

Last Half Surge Enables Wademen to Top Tech, 27-14

AN underdog Duke team fought back from a 7-0 half-time deficit to spoil Georgia Tech's homecoming by a score of 27-14. Star of the contest was Blaine Earon, who earned the distinction of lineman of the week for his brilliant play.

The Big Blue's two initial tallies came after marches of seventy-one and fifty-one yards. Jack Friedlund snagged a pass in the end zone for the first score, while Mounie plunged over from the three for the second. The final markers were the result of two interceptions by Jim Brown, Mounie ploughing over for both scores.

RETURNING home from Atlanta, the Blue Devils lost to an inspired Wake Forest team in Duke Stadium, 7-27. Along with the fact that the Deacons outweighed the Duke squad, they also presented the hardest running back seen in Durham over the past few years. Led by Bill Miller and Bill Gregus, the Demon attack couldn't be stopped by the Blue's defensive line.

Duke's offensive was centered around little Glenn Wild. The Pittsburgh flash completed eight passes, one going forty-five yards to Fred Schoonmaker for the Wademan's only score.

LED by Bill Cox, the Blue Devils downed George Washington by a score of 35-0, for their sixth win of the season, the defensive team displaying some impressive football.

Following Carl Perkinson's interception, Cox ran and passed to the one-foot line. Mounie bucked it over for the first tally. Then Stephanz scored from the three, climaxing an eighty yard drive. Cox ran forty-three yards and Powers caught a seven-yard pass for the next two touchdowns. Souchak scored the final marker in addition to kicking all five extra points.

DUKE took an early lead as Cox dashed seventy-five yards to pay-dirt. Carolina came back with three touchdowns and a safety to defeat the Big Blue 20-21 in the year's most exciting game.

Charlie Justice tossed a 40-yard scoring pass to Art Weiner and Carolina led 7-6 at the half. A blocked kick resulting in a safety, a pass from Hayes to Justice, and another pass from Justice to Weiner made the score 21-6. Powers returned a kickoff 93 yards for a Duke score, and Cox ran over for the third. A last-second field-goal attempt was unsuccessful.

BASKETBALL

IN October, while the eyes of the campus were still focused on the football stadium, Coach Jerry Gerard called the first practice of the basketball squad. With the majority of the Freshman team, which lost only two games the previous year, and all but two lettermen returning, hoop prospects for the season were bright. Ben Collins and Dick Gordon were lost via graduation, and Shag Hibbitts and Bernard Pergram failed to report for the squad. Although Co-captains Tommy Hughes and Ceep Youmans were playing football, the hoopsters drilled diligently for their first game with Hanes Hosiery in Winston-Salem, which they lost 52-53. Dick Groat, playing in his first varsity game, led Duke's losing cause with nineteen points, playing a terrific floor game.

On December 6, the Blue Devils played host to Hampden-Sydney and won handily, 74-59. Dick Groat and Larry Ashley, a pair of flashy guards, led the Blue attack with eighteen and eleven points respectively. Then on December 8, the Devils lost to another semi-pro team, 54-60.

For the third straight game, Groat was high man for Duke. Sheets led the McCrary Eagles' attack with sixteen points.

In Norfolk on December 10, the Dukes hit their stride as they dumped the Cavaliers of Virginia from the ranks of the undefeated, 82-61. The Gerardmen won their first conference game with Davidson, 66-49. Dick Crowder, six-foot five-inch forward from High Point, Youmans, and Hughes led the way for their mates, as the entire team played a good game. Whit Cobb, local Durham boy, held Groat to only four points, his lowest of the campaign. The Devils also won their second conference game, 81-67, at Lynchburg over Washington and Lee. This became a thriller when late baskets by Martin and Youmans sent the game into overtime. In the extra period, the Big Blue hit on seven out of eight shots from the floor and scored nineteen points to Washington and Lee's five.

On the day Christmas vacation began, the Gerardmen must have been thinking about Santa Claus instead of basketball as they lost to a mediocre South Carolina team 44-54. Dave Scarborough, lanky forward from Philadelphia, hit six out of nine field goals and was the only bright spot in the dim picture.

The week after Christmas, the Duke five participated in the first annual Dixie Classic in William Neal Reynolds Memorial Coliseum on the State College campus. The Blue Devils ran up against a zone defense and two great ballplayers, Lou Larney and Joe Forci, when they met Penn State in the first round of the tournament. They lost 48-51, and then lost the next game to U.N.C. 52-59, as Hugo Kapler and John Fautes hit on over fifty per cent of their shots from the floor. But the Devils did salvage the last game from Wake Forest, 54-52, as Dayton Allen, six-foot seven-inch center from McKeesport, Pennsylvania, played his best game of the year. Dick Groat was third high scorer of the tournament with fifty points and was elected to the All-Classic second team. N. C. State won the event by beating Penn State, 50-40, in the finals.

On January 3, the Devils won their third conference game with a 58-46 victory over Maryland. With Groat sick, the Devil attack was led by Co-captains Youmans and Hughes. On the seventh of January, the Devils did the impossible when they beat N. C. State, 58-55. It was State's second loss of the season and proved that the Gerard men were an outstanding team, since Coach Case's squad was one of the nation's ten best. Dick Groat's spectacular play in the second half kept Duke in the game. He made six field goals in the stretch drive, and several times broke completely away from All-American Dicky for lay-ups. Dave Scarborough also played an excellent game as he held Sam Ranzino to thirteen points, one of his lowest totals of the season. The scoring was as follows: Groat, sixteen; Youmans, fourteen; Ranzino, thirteen; Dicky, ten.

Journeying to New York, the Devils lost to N. Y. U. in Madison Square Garden, 64-80. Dick Groat played a great game, hitting the nets for eighteen points. Joe Kaufman and Ernie Schall dumped in twenty-two points apiece as the Violets had their best night of the season. On Saturday night, the Devils lost again, this time to Temple in Philadelphia by a 49-59 count. Temple used only five men, all of whom played flawless ball. Borsavage, who hit fifteen points in the second half, was the big difference in the two teams. Youmans and Groat were outstanding on the Blue Devils' behalf.

On returning home, the Devils looked good in beating South Carolina, 79-60. Ceep Youmans had his best night of the season, burning the net for twenty-five points. His performance, however, was partly overshadowed by little Jim Cox, flashy S. C. guard, who made ten out of fourteen baskets, most of them long set shots. Then the Devils won two more conference games, defeating Davidson, 69-59, and Wake Forest, 65-55. The scoring was evenly divided in the two games, with Coach Gerard using two complete teams most of the time. Wes Skipstead returned to the lineup after a brief layoff and seemed to be ready for active service. Haller's twenty-two points led Davidson and Stan Najeway, who also scored twenty-two, sparked the Deacon attack.

On February 4, the Devils won their fourth straight game with a 68-53 victory over Navy; Dick Groat hit eight out of ten baskets and a total of seventy-four points. Dave Scarborough made all eight of his free throw attempts. The Navy team was well-coached by Ben Carnevale, but just couldn't cope with Duke.

As the yearbook goes to press, the Devils are tied with State for the Conference lead, and seem to have a good chance to top the S. C. Tournament, scheduled for early March. Dick Groat has scored over 250 points and has a phenomenal shooting accuracy of forty-two per cent from the floor. Tommy Hughes is sixth in the nation in free throw percentage, having made well over four-fifths of his attempts. With sophomores Ashley, Crowder, Allen, Latimer, Engberg, and Fleming all showing great promise, the Blue Devils should improve as the season progresses, and in the near future become one of the South's leading quintets.

FROSH BASKETBALL

DUKE University's Blue Imp basketball team, coached by Horace Hendrickson, had played twelve games, winning four and losing eight, at press time. Kes Deimling, Hyde Larsen, and Bob Strauss were the offensive sparks and Bill Keziah turned in fine floor games consistently.

The Imps opened the season by defeating Pfeiffer 55-27 with Strauss contributing twenty-three points. Carolina's Tar Babies then handed them their first loss 41-58. Dick Johnson, Strauss, and Keziah played well in the losing cause. An experienced Norfolk NAS quint was troubled by the Duke yearlings, but defeated the Imps 69-71. Davidson's freshman team fell victim to the Imps by a 45-38 score as Strauss tossed in twenty points.

After Christmas vacation, the little Blue lost two in a row to a tall and polished North Carolina State five by scores of 39-74 and 31-61. The Blue Imps overcame an early lead built up by Carolina's freshman club and downed them 59-56. Larsen made twenty-one points and Deimling was close behind with eighteen.

State's yearlings gained their third win over the Imps 44-56. Wake Forest's Baby Deacs edged out the Blue Imps 53-57, although Strauss made twenty and Deimling ten points. The Duke yearlings lost another to Wake Forest 50-54. Larsen and Strauss had thirteen markers apiece.

The Norfolk Flyers downed the Imps 58-67 with Larsen adding twenty points to his total. The Duke freshmen returned to the win column by trouncing Belmont Abbey 70-45. Strauss made twenty-nine points, followed by Larsen with nineteen.

TRACK

LED by Tommy Reeves, the 1949 track squad ended the season as runners-up to UNC's conference champions. Co-captained by Don Dunham and Bob Bowles and coached by R. L. Chamber, R. U. Montfort, and H. W. Lewis, the Blue Devils won three, lost three, and tied one in dual meet competition and were well represented in the Florida, Carolina, and Penn. Relays. Reeves was high point man with 111 points, followed by Jim O'Leary with sixty-six.

The sprinters, in indoor meets, placed second to Maryland in the mile relay of the Washington Evening Star Indoor Games, fourth in the Maryland Invitation Meet as O'Leary won the shot put, and placed third in the Southern Conference Indoor Games with Buddy Grisso, John Colvin, and O'Leary winning firsts in the 440 yard run, pole vault, and shot put, respectively.

Florida downed Duke in the first outdoor meet by a score of 64-62, although Bob Marshall won the mile run, O'Leary placed first in the shot put, Henry Bullock and Grisso captured the 880 and 440 yard runs, and Reeves took firsts in the 100 yard dash and both the high and low hurdle events.

Duke gained a 63-63 tie with Princeton, while Reeves earned sixteen points by winning the century dash and low hurdles, and placing second in the high hurdles and broad jump. The Devils split the individual honors with Navy, but the Middies took more second and third places to defeat Duke 72-59.

Giving up only one first place, the Blue Devils ran William and Mary out of Duke Stadium with a score of 103 to 23. Reeves won firsts in the 100 yard dash, both hurdle events, and the broad jump. O'Leary took the discus and shot put events, while Loren Young and Jack Friedlund tied for first in the 220 yard run. Virginia then met defeat at the hands of the Blue Devils by a 95-30 score. Reeves won both the hurdle events; Young, the 220 and 440 yards runs; O'Leary, the discus and shot put; Brandon Davis, the century dash; and Bowles, the pole vault.

BASEBALL

LONG before the trees turned green, Coach Coombs, the well-liked mentor of the Duke baseball nine, issued the call for practice to begin. He was well pleased with the squad which had lost only George Clark, Ed Perini, Henry Smith, and Ed McCarthy from 1948. Although no help could be counted on from the freshmen, the 1949 edition of the Blue Devils Nine was expected to be one of the best ever produced by Coach Coombs, who has just completed his twenty-first year at Duke.

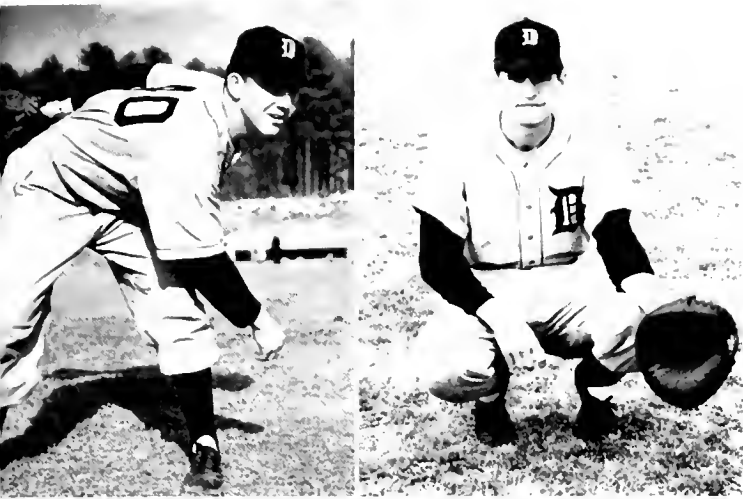

But Lady Luck was not to be on the Blue Devil's side this year. From the very beginning, when the first intra-squad games were held, it was evident that pitching was to be the Devil's main weakness. Al Curtis, the big righthander from South Carolina who had pitched so beautifully in 1948, developed back trouble and never returned to his previous form. His failure greatly weakened Coach Coombs' pitching staff, which Connie Mack once said was ninety per cent of baseball. Nevertheless the Blue Devils started south to play Mercer, Rollins, Georgia, Clemson and South Carolina.

On this trip Duke won four of eleven games. The one bright spot as far as pitching goes was Fahser's 5-3 win over Georgia. But their hitting was much better with Stu Erickson getting two home runs, a triple, and a double before he was hurt in the fourth game. Despite Bill Bergeron's twelve hits in the last four games of the trip, Lady Luck was still against the Devils. But the journey through the land of early season sunshine was not in vain, for the Dukesters got their limbering up for Big Four play.

On April 9, the Devils, minus two first string outfielders, entertained Wake Forest in their first Big Four Game. With Folger and Erickson not yet in top shape, the Blue Devils proved easy pickings for Dick VanderClute, ace of the Deacon mound staff. Al Curtis went all the way for the home team, losing 3-6. Leroy Sires, Duke's great catcher was the only Blue Devil to get two hits.

Four days later, the Duke squad traveled to Raleigh only to lose to State College 7-8. Leading Duke's losing cause were Clover, Sires, and "Red" Lucas, who had a triple, a double, and a single; a home run and two singles; and three singles respectively.

On the 18th of April, the Dukesters lost another family scrap to Carolina, 2-8. Bob Blair held the home squad in check with the exception of Bill Bergeron, who banded out three hits.

In between these Big Four games the Blue Devils won four Southern Conference games, beating South Carolina 6-2 and 9-5, Maryland 5-2, and Davidson 10-5. Davis won two with Bud Ayers and Paul Karukstis winning one apiece.

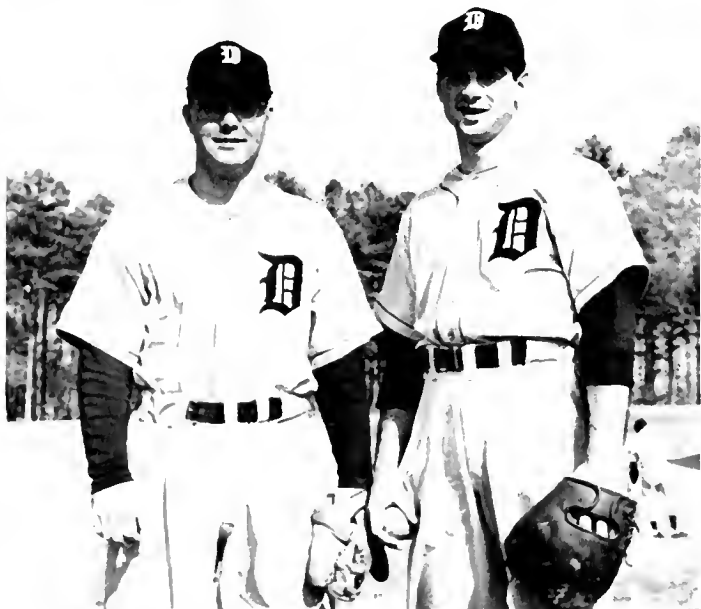

April 23 saw the Demon Deacons once again taking the measure of the Devils with Nicholas, Mustian, and VanderClute outlasting Karukstis and Graham in a close game, 5-6. Jack Hancock, diminutive first baseman for Duke, led their hitting with a double and a single. Three days later

Bud Ayers, Duke curveball artist, lost a heart-breaker to Carolina, 1-3. Although outbit, the Tar Heels bunched a walk and three hits in the sixth for two of their runs.

The Devils once again failed to break into the win column in Big Four play, losing once more to VanderClute and Wake Forest, 1-3. Paul Karukstis gave up only six hits. Jerry Frye got two of the loser's four hits.

May brought new life to the Duke squad as Bud Ayers beat State 7-4, with Freddie Folger banging out five hits. But the streak didn't last as Bob Blair beat Paul Karukstis 3-4 on Coombs Field. Jerry Frye led Duke's loss to Carolina with a triple and a double. Then State, with Big Page on the mound, beat the Devils and Al Curtis, 3-5. Once again Wake Forest beat the home forces, 11-12, with Fireball Harry Nicholas never giving the losers a chance.

But over at Carolina, the Devils pushed across nine runs in the second inning and won 11-9. The Devils won their second in a row, defeating State 3-2, with Bud Ayers allowing only seven hits. Bergeron had three for four to lead the Duke cause. And on the final day of the season, seniors Paul Karukstis and Jerry Frye led their team to a 6-1 victory over Carolina. Paul pitched one of the best games of his career, while Jerry had two triples and a single.

As for totals for the season, Bill Bergeron hit .333, scored twenty-two runs, and stole eight bases. Stu Erickson had six triples and three home runs, while Jerry Frye joined the leaders with four triples. Leroy Sires batted in nineteen runs for a team that hit .272. Paul Karukstis and Bud Ayers led the pitchers with Bud having the best record, 5-1. Fred Folger made the Big Four All-Star team with Sires, Bergeron, and Ayers gaining Honorable Mention.

TENNIS

DUKE University's 1949 tennis squad played a tough eighteen game schedule which included matches with William and Mary, Carolina, Florida, Yale, and Georgia Tech. The Blue Devil racquet men won twelve, lost four, and had two matches rained out, to complete the season with a good .750 average.

On a trip through the South, the Big Blue took four of five matches, defeating Jacksonville NAS 9-0, Stetson 8-1, Florida Southern 8-1, and the Citadel 8-0. A strong Florida team handed the Dukesters a 0-9 loss.

Returning home, the netters won seven straight before losing again. Yale fell victim to Duke 6-3, followed by Williams 9-4, Navy 8-1, Cincinnati 7-1, Presbyterian 6-3, Georgia Tech 7-2, and N. C. State 7-2. At Chapel Hill UNC downed the Blue Devils 2-7. Jim Wesley was the lone singles winner, while Lew McMasters and Buddy Hicks gained a victory in the doubles play. In a match cut short by rain, Duke lost to Virginia 2-5. Hicks was the standout of the Devils' 9-0 win over Wake Forest. With a 1-8 loss to William and Mary, the netters, co-captained by McMasters and Bob Chapman, and coached by Bob Cox and Johnny Hendrix, completed a highly successful season.

GOLF

DUKE'S 1949 linksmen, coached by Ellis P. "Dumpy" Hagler, ran through a schedule of nine dual meets and two tournaments. Art Wall stepped into the Number One position to lead the Blue Devils to five wins and second place in the Southern Intercollegiate Championship.

Lou McLennan shot a one-under-par 69 over the Hope Valley Course, and Wall came in with a par 70 to trip Michigan 14-12. The Blue Devil linksters dropped their second match 12-15 to Purdue over a rain-swept course.

Wall shot a 5-under-par 65 to lead his team to a 23-4 victory over Ohio University. The Duke men broke even on their road trip north by defeating Pennsylvania 5-1 and losing to Navy 3-4. They returned home to be upset 12-15 by N. C. State, and Wake Forest prolonged the losing streak by trimming the Blue Devils 9-18.

Wall repeated his five-under-par feat in downing North-South Champion Harvie Ward 3 and 2. This was the feature match of the 22-5 victory over Carolina. The dual meet season was concluded with a 21-5 defeat of Maryland.

The Blue Devils successfully defended their Southern Conference title by beating Wake Forest with a single stroke, winning with a team score of 580, while Wall and Tony Reed placed second and fourth respectively for individual honors.

LACROSSE

DUKE University's lacrosse team, ranked fifth nationally at the end of the 1948 season, faced a tough, nine-game schedule during 1949. Johns Hopkins, Navy, Maryland, R.P.I., Virginia, and Princeton were a few of the teams the Blue Devil stickmen met.

Although Coach Jack Persons had an experienced squad, the group was plagued by injuries and finished the season with a record of four wins and five losses.

The Devil stickmen coasted to an easy 18-1 victory over William and Mary in their first game, scoring fifteen goals in the first half. Boyce threw in five tallies. The second game was another one-sided battle with the Blue Devils downing Williams 13-4.

Navy fought off a final period rally to give the Blue Devils their first loss by 7-13 score. Boyce scored three Duke markers. Injury-riddled, the Dukesters travelled north to lose to R.P.I. 7-14 and Princeton 8-9. The Devil stickmen then downed Washington and Lee 17-7.

Johns Hopkins, last year's national champions, handed Duke its fourth loss of the campaign by a 4-16 count. Journeying to Baltimore for their eighth encounter, the Devils started strong. But a determined Maryland team roared back and Duke went down 7-19. The Blue Devils took full measure of Virginia 8-3 for the season's finale, and walked off with the Dixie League title.

SWIMMING

THE Duke University mermen, coached by Jack Persons, have completed half of their schedule of nine dual meets at press time.

In their opener, the Blue Devils lost 32 to 43 to North Carolina's defending conference champs. Bill Brackney placed first in the fifty and one hundred yard free-style events and John Connor amassed 118 points to take first in the diving. Duke's 400 yard relay team of Brackney, Linaweaver, Crandall, and Overdorff took first in that event.

William and Mary's swimmers fell victim to Duke 40-34. Connor set a new school record of 151.96 points to take first in the diving. Brackney won the 100 and 220 yard free-style swims. Other firsts were Overdorff in the fifty yard free-style; Jack Burnett, 150 yard backstroke; Jim Stockslager, 440 yard swim; and Gubbins, Wamsley, and Crandall, the 300 yard medley.

Persons' charges edged out VPI 38-37 with wins by Brackney in the 100, 220, and 440 events; Overdorff, the 50 yard free-style; Connor, the diving; and Gubbins, Lusting, and Crandall, the 300 yard medley.

The Blue Devil swimmers were drowned by VMI 22-53, although Brackney won the 100 and 220 yard free-styles. Connor took first in diving, and Stockslager placed first in the 440 event.

Johnny Connor, Number 1 Varsity diver, makes it look easy.

CROSS COUNTRY

Bullock, Griffith, and Tomlinson give their all for Duke's Cross Country Track Team.

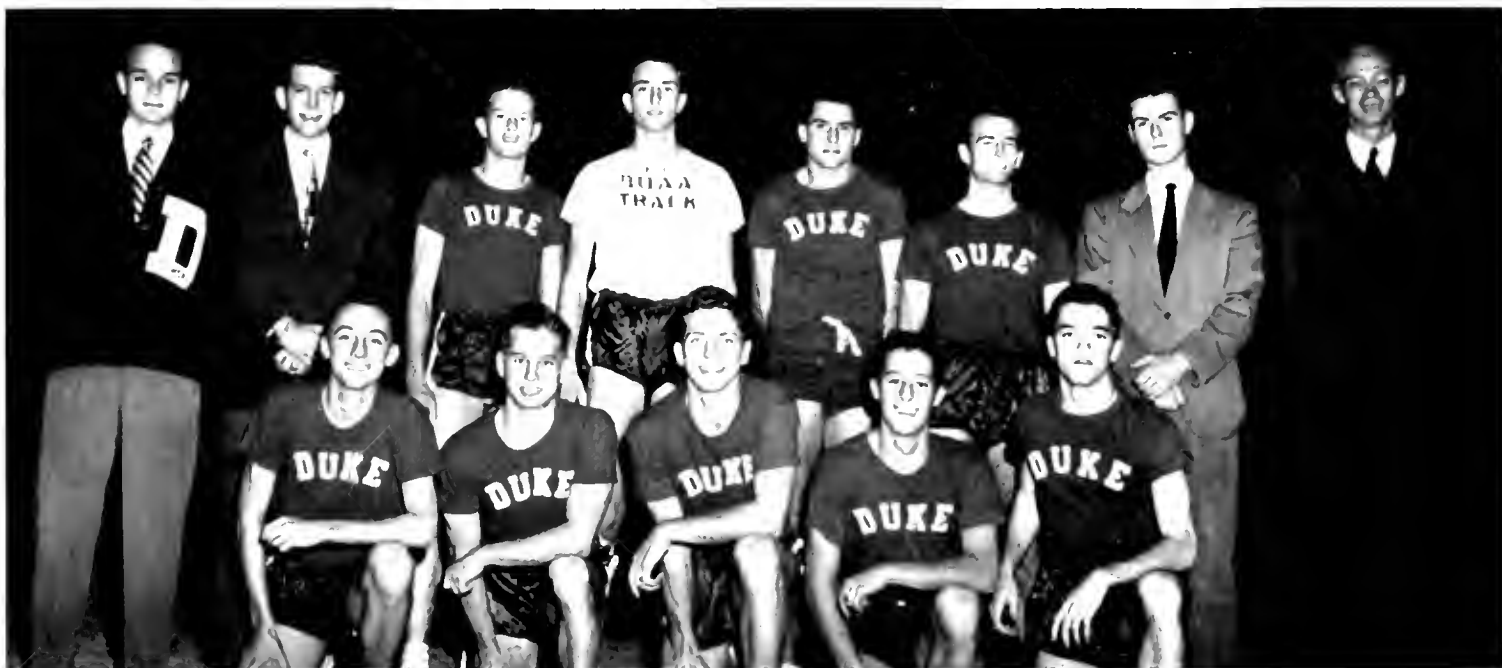

THE 1949 cross country team, skillfully trained by Coach Lewis, had a strong and aggressive squad, although their record might lead you to believe otherwise. Cross country in the Southern Conference compares favorably with the best in the nation and will stand up in any competition. Under captain Bill Griffith, Duke's runners won two out of seven dual meets.

The most outstanding victory was a 28-27 win over Carolina, the first time a Blue Devil squad had defeated the Tar Heels since 1935. Duke's other triumph came at the expense of Virginia 18-15, six Blue runners tying for first place. Duke losses were at the hands of Navy, Maryland, State, Davidson, and Georgia Tech. Course records were set by Charlie Tomlinson at Maryland and State, and by both Tomlinson and John Miller at Georgia Tech.

Once again the Southern Conference meet was dominated by Maryland, with Duke finishing in the number six spot.

COMBINING reserves from the previous year and newcomers from the freshmen team, Coach James Bly produced a 1949 Duke soccer team which ran through an eight-game schedule with just fair results. Captained by Scotty Wheaton, the Blue Devil hoosters won three games and lost five. Regulars on this year's edition were Jack Heller, Al D'Alonzo, Dante Vigianno, Dick Northam, Pete Archambault, Ken Menkin, Mal Lindstrom, Gordon Landon, Neal McNamara, and Otis Zavertnik.

The Duke hoosters won their opening game with Virginia 2-0. Lindstrom's kick was stopped by the Cavalier goalie, but Menkin made it on the rebound. D'Alonzo took a pass from Menkin for the second tally, and Heller's performance between the posts kept the visitors scoreless. In two overtime periods the Dukes fell to N. C. State 1-2. The only Blue score came on D'Alonzo's penalty boot in the third frame. In a return game, our boys gained revenge as D'Alonzo chalked up two tallies, for a pleasing victory.

UNC's Tarheels overcame the Devils on both occasions, 0-1 and 0-2. Numerous saves by the goalies kept the scoring to a minimum. Despite the last minute tally of Washington and Lee's Generals, Duke triumphed 2-1. In the final clash of the '49 season, the Big Blue fell victim to the hoosters of the University of Maryland.

ALTHOUGH conference wrestling champion Mike Kusturis was gone, Duke's matmen this year showed great promise of developing into a contender for the Southern Conference Championship. The Devil grapplers were expertly piloted once again by Carman Falcone, while Jerry Gallagher captained the squad.

Several of the experienced groaners turned in outstanding records this year. Jerry Gallagher not only did a fine job as captain of the team, but he also won his first three starts on the mat. John McMasters increased his individual record to twelve consecutive wins by adding three more triumphs this season. Other veterans who have accounted for Duke's scoring are Joe Orzano, Dan Moser, Dick Harrison, Bill Britt, and Jack Eslick, all outstanding performers.

The Big Blue opened their season at North Carolina State and got off to a good start with a 22-11 victory. The next contest, this time with V.P.L., ended with the Dukesters on the short end of an 11-16 count. Surviving exams, the Falconemen battled the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech to a 12-12 tie.

These Duke grapplers are learning to tie human square knots.

FRESHMAN SPORTS

M AINTAINED for the purpose of seasoning yearling athletes for varsity competition and providing the opportunity for talented frosh to distinguish themselves in the world of college sports, Duke's Freshmen teams measure up to those of any school in the country.

Last spring the Blue Imps of the track, tennis, lacrosse, golf, and baseball teams gave a good account of themselves. Boasting an undefeated season, the tracksters gained their most important victory in the State-wide frosh meet. The yearling racket men held an unblemished record of six wins and no defeats. Three of their opponents failed to break into the scoring column. Stickmen of the lacrosse squad snowed UNC on four different occasions, the narrowest margin of victory being nine points. Also devoid of losses was the frosh golf team.

Four wins, seven losses, and one tie was the result of the frosh baseball schedule. One bright spot on the junior diamond was Dick Groat's hitting and infield play. Stand-outs of the soccer team were Besneski and Riqueszes.

Probable varsity-bound performers are:

Track—Frank Nichols, Henry Poss, Charlie Tomlinson, Keith McDonald and Mickey Salazar.

Tennis—Harold Lipton, Charlie Lott, and Ronnie Simpson.

Golf—Jim Pollock and Jan Dawes.

Lacrosse—Bob Hansen, Jim Whitescarver, Otto Dieffenbach, Don Bafford, and Brooks Cottman.

Baseball—John Carroll, Dick Denny, Dick Groat, Bill Joyee, and Jim Cable.

The battling is decided in the age-old way.

These seven men are rarin' to go in a fraternity dash.

INTRA

THE 1949-1950 intramural sports program produced some exciting softball and football games, tennis, handball, and golf matches, and a spectacular track meet and cross country run. In a close race with the KA's and Phi Delt, the Betas, led by Mike Kusturis and Jack Woodworth, won the softball championship. KA's Patton, Reeves, Hawkins, and Johnson trimmed the Sigma Chis 14-4 for the golf title. In the annual track meet, the KA's again edged out the Sigma Chis. On the tennis courts Fairey and Herbin beat Sager and Villaneuva in the doubles, while Johnnie White, a Pi Kap, defeated ATO John Enander for the singles title. Freshmen Bill Ward and Rusty Phillips won the horseshoes crown, while Phi Delts Frank Wamsley and Skip Bain took the badminton cup.

In the fall, the KA "C" team, led by Dan Caldwell, repeated as university football champions after winning the third division. Sigma Chi "A" team placed first in the top bracket, and the second and fourth division winners were the ATO

Jack Wamsley, a Phi Delt, replaced his brother Frank as the fall tennis champion in singles. Bob Shackelford and John Enander, two ATO's, combined their skill to walk off with the doubles crown. The singles handball winner was Will Clardy, an SAE, and the doubles title was captured by Charlie Dutweiler and Dan Farinella, both Delts. Ernie Widenhouse left his competitors behind to place first in the cross country meet, the KA's taking the team trophy.

The winter wrestling meet was won by the Betas, while Bill Scott, Ken Gross, Don Bafford, and Bob Malone produced outstanding matches in the various weight classes. At the half-way mark in basketball, the Sigma Chis, Engineers, Divinity School, Phi Delt Goldbricks and "D" team, and Freshman House P. were providing fine play.

MANY of Duke's athletes this year achieved honors and a degree of fame in college sports circles. The recognition given these stars is an indirect tribute to their coaches. The athletic staff, headed by E. M. Cameron, has done an outstanding job. The following were among those to receive honors in Duke University sports.

Wallace Wade: Southern Conference Coach of the year.

Louis Allen: Associated and United Press All-Southern first team; Associated Press All-American third team; All-American blocking first team; All-Time Duke, Shrine Bowl, and All-State teams.

Bill Cox: Associated and United Press All-Southern first team; All-Time Shrine Bowl; Big Four offensive champion; ninth ranking in nation for offense; greatest passer in Duke History.

Blaine Earon: Associated Press lineman-of-the-week.

Jim Gibson: All-State first team; All-American blocking third team.

John Connor: All-American swimming team.

Howard Heiss, Lee Hoshall, and Bert Nuttle: All-Southern lacrosse team.

Fred Folger and LeRoy Sires: Big Four baseball team.

Golf team: Southern Conference champions.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

UNDER the direction of the Women's Athletic Association and its president Jo Dawes, the East campus sports program provided a variety of athletic activities for Duke's coeds. This schedule of events corresponded to the Intramural sport program on West campus.

The main event of the fall tennis season was the freshmen singles tournament, won by Pegram's Joan Miller. Plans for the spring semester called for a college-wide singles and doubles contest and possibly one for mixed doubles. Boasting a large membership, the field hockey club staged a victorious match with the girls of UNC. Moving indoors in December, the coed athletes got their basketball tournament under way. Brown House walked off with dormitory honors.

Some of these girls look at the ball while others look at the camera. But none of them look like Patty Berg or Babe Zaharias.

while Kappa Delta copped the Greek league title.

The clubs for fencing, golf, and badminton were in full swing, and classes were conducted. The bowling club met once a week, and the outing club began operation with the opening of its cabin in the Duke forest.

Spring brought a Water pageant by the Nereidian Club, a recital by the Modern Dance Club, and the National Telegraphic Meets in archery, bowling, and swimming.

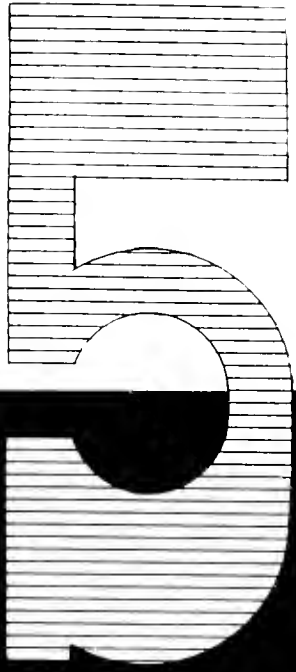

Who's saving who? Or are they trying to drown each other?

These girls really display form—in bowling, that is. They may not make a strike every time, but they're sure using the right bait.

MARY JOSEPHINE DAWES

Athletics

Sophomore transfer Jo Dawes is East's Babe Diedrickson. This Dean's List athlete has been president of W.A.A., a Nereidian swimmer, coed tennis champion, and a cheerleader. She is a Zeta Tau Alpha from Rome, Georgia.

Each year there are certain students who attain positions of prominence on the campus through their interest in organizations, student government, scholarship, publications, leadership—in short, all the things that make Duke a university and not just an institution.

JOHN CHARLES ELLSWORTH

Leadership

"Y" president John Ellsworth has risen to the top bracket of Duke leadership. President of ATO, he has been active in fraternity circles. He is a member of Red Friars and past captain of the cross country team.

JANE ESTELLE SUGGS

Student Government

Now vice-president of W.S.G.A., Jane has been a hard-working member of East's governing body since her freshman year. She has been president of the Town Girls' Club, an F.A.C., and a member of Phi Kappa Delta.

LEADERS

The Chanticleer proudly presents the following people who have been selected by a committee of faculty and students as being worthy of recognition for their outstanding contributions in the various activities. The committee limited its candidates to two leaders in each field.

JAMES TERRELL KNOTTS

Athletics

One of Wallace Wade's most reliable performers and a native North Carolinian, Jimmy Knotts has appeared on the cover of "The State." The popular KA's gridiron career was cut short by a leg injury early this season.

ELIZABETH ALLEN

Leadership

"Happy" has been a driving force in every activity of which she has been a part. Now president of Kappa Alpha Theta, she has been a class officer, a member of Social Standards, W.A.A. Board, and Delta Phi Rho Alpha.

ROBERT LEE HAZEL

Student Government

Armed with pipe and slide rule, Bob has forged his way through to the presidency of many student groups. A Red Friar and member of O.D.K., he has held the top job on S.G.A., the Steering Board, and the Engineers' Club.

ALICE JOAN POVEJSIL

Publications

Columnist Polly Povejsil has spent a large part of four years extra-curriculating. In East circles she is a member of Ivy and Sandals, while on the Row she has held the Coed Editor's job on both the Chronicle and D 'n' D.

CLARENCE BROWN

Scholarship

This southern gentleman has the distinction of being the only Greek major at Duke. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Clarence's scholarly manner disguises a dry wit which finds expression in nationally-published cartoons.

ELIZABETH JEAN BROWN

Organizations

Although Betty's star shines brightest on the Row, where she is Chronicle Coed Editor and a member of Pub Board, she has also attained distinction as a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Delta, and Sigma Delta Pi.

PHILLIPS TRELEAVEN

Publications

Typewriter - wielding Chronicle Editor Phil Treleaven is a Phi Beta and a Phi Psi. This Illinois Yankee, a member of O.D.K. and Alpha Kappa Psi, has been prominent on Pub Row throughout his undergraduate days.

NANCY MILBURN ALLEY

Scholarship

This Phi Beta has kept her activity list as high as her scholarship. Bassett house president, she has been a Marshal, and class officer, as well as a member of White Duchy, Phi Kappa Delta, Social Standards, and Pan-Hel.

JACK ESLICK

Organizations

A football player, and a wrestler, "Slick" has been a real "joiner." Among the organizations whose rolls contain his name are F.A.C., the Steering Board, and the Men's Athletic Council. He is Varsity "D" Club President.

Duke University's majestic chapel soars into the beautiful blue heavens as it silently watches over the inauguration of the new president, A. Hollis Edens.

INAUGURATION OF DOCTOR A. HOLLIS EDENS

DURHAM, a mere pin prick on any map of these United States, became a magnetic pole in mid-October, 1949. Attracted to this city were not only a large number of dignitaries, but also alumni and friends of Duke University. It was Homecoming, an appropriate weekend for the inauguration of President A. Hollis Edens, who was formally claiming Duke as "home." No one on campus could help but sense the excitement in the air.

At a time which demands clear thinking and a sharp sense of values, President Edens undertook the responsibility for directing the training of a few of tomorrow's thinkers. To open the weekend, the Honorable Sir Oliver Franks, British Ambassador to the United States, and Dr. Raymond Blaine Fosdick, advisor to the Secretary of State and former president of New York's Rockefeller Foundation, spoke at a general convocation on the subject "Education for the Atomic Age." Continuing the emphasis on the importance of education, a new wing to the West Campus Library was dedicated. Recently returned from speaking in Hiroshima at the Peace Day observance, Norman Cousins, famous editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, highlighted the ceremony. After his address, keys to the enlarged library were presented to Dr. Benjamin Powell, head librarian, by Willis Smith, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Saturday dawned, sunny and crisp. In front of the chapel seats had been set up, and people began filling them long before the final ceremonies were scheduled to begin. Out came a long procession of dignified men and women in their caps and gowns—faculty members, guests, and the new president. Expressing the voices of the students, Sylvia Sommer and Bob Hazel, respective presidents of the Woman's and Men's Student Government Associations, gave short talks. Durham's mayor and North Carolina's governor were on hand to extend their congratulations. Finally, from a speaker's stand above a huge blanket of flowers, President Edens delivered his address. There, among flashes from busy cameras, Duke's new president was inaugurated—the same place at which the convocation had met to launch the inauguration.

On Sunday afternoon as the last notes left the fingertips of E. Power Biggs, noted organist, and died away in the chapel arches, the whole campus seemed to smile in complete satisfaction. And the reason for this confident smile was the presence of one man, a man whose smile, warm hand-clasp, and genuine personality had stimulated similar reactions in those with whom he had come into contact in his previous positions. One of the youngest and most distinguished educators in the United States, President Edens assumed his new duties with the quiet determination found only in great men. Thus, from 1838 to 1950, from Union Institute Academy to Duke University, and from Braxton Craven to A. Hollis Edens, Duke looks forward to the future with assurance.

HOMECOMING

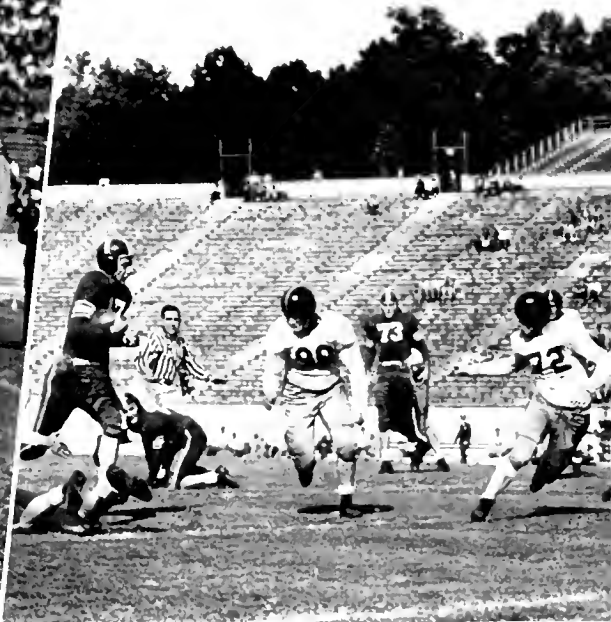

Right: Sigs have Wade serve V.P.I. gobbler to Dr. Edens. Left: Blue Devil sits in his corner before knocking gobbler out of the ring.

HOMECOMING has long been an important event on Methodist Flats. At every school the Homecoming weekend is a big one, but at Duke it involves certain traditions. Noisy, pajama-clad students parade downtown for a Friday night pep rally at Five Points. By Saturday morning alumni-filled cars nudge each other in a solid line from one campus to the other. Familiar greetings can be heard across the quadrangle, and students, excused from classes that day, begin to fill the football stadium early. Elected by the student body on the bases of beauty and contributions to the campus, the Homecoming Queen is crowned at half-time of the game, which this year was with V.P.I. Before, during, and after the big game, there is much back-slapping and hand-shaking. Renewing college acquaintances, visiting old familiar haunts, reminiscing about "the good old days," Duke's alumni take over the campus.

President Edens is presented the key to city of Durham.

THANKSGIVING

DUKE'S Thanksgiving has a personality all its own. As the chapel bells ring in the universal day of praise, an air of relaxation spreads over the campus. Every Thanksgiving afternoon finds holiday-happy students giving the freshman football team all the vocal blocking they could need. As the teams trudge off the field for a half-time rest, bedlam breaks loose at the south goal post. Cameras flash, guns pop, and they're off in the annual wheelbarrow race between the fraternities, providing laughs and fun for everybody and a trophy for the winners.

One of the most anticipated events of the year is the Coed Ball. Held on Thanksgiving Eve, this year's ball represented the glittering court of King Arthur over which the lovely Chanticleer Beauty Queen and her attendants held sway. Selected by a nationally prominent connoisseur of beauty—this year it was Billy Rose—queen Marjorie Arthur was crowned amid the pomp and gaiety of a medieval court, helping to make Thanksgiving a gala occasion.

Thanksgiving on West. Dick Hopper and friends ponder over all they have to be thankful for as they view the sumptuous meal.

Not to be outdone, the freshmen and sophomores, ineligible to attend the Coed Ball, have a dance of their own on Thanksgiving night, at which the popular Duke Ambassadors are featured.

Being away from home for Thanksgiving dinner is made easier by the banquets served in the Unions. No matter how far away home might be, students cannot help but feel that with the Thanksgiving traditions here, Duke is indeed a home away from home.

Center: Words of wisdom are bestowed on departing seniors.

GRADUATION

WHEN the last final has been taken, and the last undergraduate has left for the summer, parents and friends flood the campus for traditional June ceremonies. Listening to speeches by prominent men, this group remembers a first tooth, a grammar school play, a high school graduation. With proud eyes they watch the exchange of hobby sox for hose and heels, golf caps for graduation caps, old faithful sweaters for robes. Patiently, they tour the campus, again hearing the same "and here's our library" that they had heard four years before. Seated in the chapel singing traditional graduation songs, they decide that the occasion is an unforgettable, but almost bittersweet, one. For the last time as students, those who are graduating sing ". . . and though on life's broad sea . . ." with the thrilling realization of what those words actually mean. Then the tassels are changed from one side to another, and the good-byes begin. "I certainly am glad to see this sheep-skin." "Let me jot down your address. . . ." "Betcha thought I'd never make it, huh?" Or "I'll never forget. . . ." And they won't. The "Dear Old Duke" days of classes and cuts, dances and dates might be over, but they will never forget. Wherever their fates may bear them, they will ever turn to the university and friends they hold so dear. And indelibly written in their memory books will be those unequalled and impressive ceremonies that made them Duke alumni.

Duke University

COMPANIONS ALL!

Popular Jan McKee, like many Duke coeds, chooses her dresses for college dances at the FASHION SHOP.

When it comes to toning up a meal, DURHAM DAIRY MILK gets the call. Makes every meal a little bit better . . . a little bit tastier.

The favorite of Durham visitors THE WASHINGTON DUKE, Durham's modern hotel, is favorite student rendezvous.

College students go for that zestful, refreshing quality of PEPSI-COLA. Twice as much and better, too.

THE 1950 ADVERTISING STAFF

We sincerely appreciate the patronage of the concerns which have advertised in the 1950 CHANTICLEER. They have been courteous and coöperative in dealing with us, and we hope that whenever possible you will trade with them.

THE BUSINESS STAFF.

“JAHN & OLLIER AGAIN”

A slogan signifying a service created to excel in all things pertaining to yearbook design and engraving.

We have found real satisfaction in pleasing you, the yearbook publisher, as well as your photographer and your printer.
